State Senate Close To Vote on Bill to Raise Age Limit

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Beer and young people will provide the basis for lively activity in the legislature during the next week. The senate is nearing a vote on one of the bills that has produced great pressure on both sides during the last six weeks — the Donnelly proposal to raise state-wide the legal age for beer buying and purchasing to 21 years.

Strong Drink Wisconsin law sets 18 years as the minimum age for the purchase of beer by any person. State law sets a 21 year minimum age for the sale of strong drink to any person.

But Wisconsin municipalities remain at the academy for at least a couple of hours. From there the party will fly north to Denver, a 15-minute hop. It is estimated that in 150 Wisconsin municipalities, representing about three quarters of the population of the state, there are now local ordinances forbidding the sale of beer to any person under the age of 21 years.

Ike to Tour Air Force's Academy

Washington — President Eisenhower headed for Colorado today to tour the Air Force academy and visit his ailing mother-in-law. Traveling in the presidential plane Columbine III, he took off from the Washington airport at 7:58 a. m. for the 6-hour flight to Colorado Springs.

There he will greet the Air Force academy's first graduating class and get his first on-the-ground look at the school which nestles at the eastern edge of the Rocky mountains. Accompanying the president from Washington for the academy tour are Air Force Sec. James H. Douglas and Gen. James D. White, air force chief of staff.

Also going along are the president's son and daughter-in-law, army major and Mrs. John Eisenhower, and their four youngsters.

Fires, Traffic, Trains, Guns Kill 30 Persons Across U.S.

9 Burn to Death; 7 Students Perish

Thirty persons are dead across the nation today in tragedies including murder, suicide, traffic crashes, fires and leaps from buildings.

Seven teenagers were killed in a car-train crash at Mattoon, Ill., in the worst single tragedy. A family of five died in a house fire and another family of four perished in a railroad crossing accident. Four children died in another fire in Missouri.

Killed After School Dance

Mattoon, Ill. — Seven young people who had just left a high school dance were killed early today, and one was critically injured in a grade crossing collision with a crack Illinois Central passenger train.

The 20-car "Louisiane," New Orleans bound from Chicago, carried the auto a quarter of a mile.

The dead were Jerry Hill, 18; Irene Moon, 16; Judy Keen, 18; Dorothy Thomas, 18; Lorraine Pfeiffer, 17, and her 18-year-old brother, Lisle, all of Shelbyville, Ill., and Jerry Mayes, 19, of Woodlawn, Ill.

Three Die in Jumps or Falls

San Francisco — Four persons jumped or fell from high places yesterday in San Francisco and a fifth was pulled from a 16th floor ledge of a building just across the bay in Oakland.

Three of the four were killed, the other injured critically.

Killed in plunges from separate downtown buildings were Velma Fowler, 70-year-old spinster; Robert Stewart, 72, and Finon H. Sils, 56, former vaudeville performer.

George Yomeda, 70-year-old caretaker, was hurt when he fell while washing a third-story window.

Girl Shoots, Kills Mother

Houston, Texas — Machine gunist George Rainer wept softly as he talked of his daughter, a pretty choir girl 8 months, 2 years and 7 years. Their last names were Ben nett, but complete identification was not immediately available.

Dulles' Condition Said to be Worse

Family Gathers in Washington to Be Near Stricken Former Diplomat

Washington — John Foster Dulles' condition is neck. On April 15 President Eisenhower, with great reluctance, announced Dulles' resignation as secretary of state. The president retained Dulles as a personal consultant, they include his three children and three sisters.

The former secretary of state, weakened by the cancer that has spread through his body, contracted a mild case of pneumonia last week. Yesterday state department press officer Lincoln White said:

"Mr. Dulles' pneumonia has not completely resolved. There has been some further decline in his general condition."

At Walter Reed army hospital his condition was reported unchanged this morning.

Dulles, 71, entered the hospital last Feb. 12.

In 1956, an operation had removed a cancerous growth in the colon. This February, in the course of a hernia operation, army doctors discovered that the cancer had spread.

They gave Dulles huge radiation treatments, both with a giant X-ray machine and by injecting radioactive gold salts into his abdomen.

In April Dulles left the hospital briefly for a stay in Florida.

For a time it even appeared that his tremendous powers of recuperation and will to go on would prevail. Then on April 12 he returned to the hospital.

The doctors reported the

Slayer Back In Hospital

McLaughlin Says He Fears Actions Of Patients, Guards

Milwaukee — Harold W. McLaughlin, the admitted slayer of little Ben Wagner, was once more under lock and key in a state mental hospital today and was given special protection from the other inmates.

"I'm afraid to go back," the 28-year-old McLaughlin said Friday as three officers returned him to Central State hospital at Waupun. "The patients and guards talked about what they'd like to do to the man who killed the little boy. I'm afraid they might be rough."

McLaughlin, who has been adjudged feeble-minded, and originally committed April 21 for molesting a child, was placed in a maximum security unit where he will stay until released for trial on first degree murder charges. He admitted the slaying Wednesday. Ben was killed April 4.

A very close eye is being kept on him in view of his comments about returning.

Police in suburban Wauwatosa said McLaughlin was being checked out as a matter of routine in the rape-slaying of Mrs. Edna Mauch, 57, who was beaten to death with a brick in a sock last summer.

West May Agree to Discuss Berlin Apart From Package

Move Designed as Pry to Break Current Deadlock With Russians

Geneva — The western powers today were reported to be in a position to agree, however, on their refusal to abandon the communist-encircled city.

The big four foreign ministers conference recessed over the weekend with the Soviets still insisting on the signing of a peace treaty with the two German states above everything else.

Hope Persists But hope persisted among western diplomats of finding a formula for agreement on the future of divided Berlin. The crisis triggered by Russia's demand for western withdrawal from West Berlin is expected to move steadily to the fore as the second week of the conference develops.

Prices Take Trimming in Barber War

Irving, Texas — Bargain-minded fathers and their bushy-haired sons eagerly lined up today to get 15-cent trims with free shoeshines and snow cones during the price war of feuding barbers.

Participants are Ed Cox, a realtor who owns the Irving boulevard barber shop, and his two former employees—A. T. Harrell and Jay Simmons, who now operate their own shop 150 feet down the street.

Cox opened his shop eight months ago but says he didn't make enough money from a 70-30 split arrangement with Harrell and Simmons to cover his investment.

"I wanted to out of the barber business," Cox said. "I gave Harrell first chance to buy the place."

Harrell said the asking price was too high so he and Simmons decided to set up their own shop.

Two Fires Take Lives of Nine

St. Louis — A family of five perished early today in a fire that engulfed their home in north St. Louis county.

Last night, 160 miles to the south, four children were killed in a fire that destroyed their frame farm home near Neelyville, Mo.

The St. Louis county victims were a mother, father and their three children, ages 8 months, 2 years and 7 years. Their last names were Ben nett, but complete identification was not immediately available.

Severe Punishment Failed to Lessen the love Donald, 3, and Arthur, Jr., 5, right, have for their father. With their hands in bandages they display their love for Arthur Murray after he appeared in court in New York where he was accused for punishing the boys for stealing by holding their hands over lighted burners of a gas stove.

Charges Saddy Wants Racing in Wisconsin

Madison — Sen. Casimir Kendzioriski (D-Milwaukee) asserted Friday that Fred Saddy, secretary of the state Athletic commission, is "fronting for somebody to bring horse racing to Wisconsin."

Asked to comment, Saddy said in Milwaukee: "I can't understand him. I don't know a race horse from a bale of hay."

During Senate debate on the state's executive budget, Kendzioriski said Saddy had told the Joint Finance committee that horse racing would help solve the state's financial problem.

60 Days of Seclusion Ahead for Godfrey in Battle Against Cancer

New York — Arthur Godfrey has said "au revoir" to public life for 60 days to follow doctors' orders explicitly in recuperating from a lung cancer operation.

The CBS radio and television star left Columbia Presbyterian hospital yesterday—a weak, trembling man but grateful to be alive.

Speaks to Press Although aides tried to hustle him away immediately to his New York apartment, the red-haired performer refused. He spoke to the press and asked through reporters to convey his thanks to so many well wishers who have followed the results of his surgery.

Later from his Manhattan home Godfrey dictated a 1,000-word statement released for publication through CBS, concerning his recent operation, and hopes for the future. Godfrey had told newsmen that "I got a break—he (the you.)"

Arthur Godfrey

In his statement, he elaborated on his getting a break.

He declared: "I know why I got the break. I got it because so many people prayed for it. I'll have to admit that I didn't pray for it, because I never ask for anything for myself and besides, I have already had too many breaks. I only ask to be worthy of whatever is granted."

Rate Chances After spending some time at his home here, the 55-year-old Godfrey will go to his 1,500-acre Virginia farm.

According to generalized figures from the American Cancer society, the chances are 25-1 to 50-1 against Godfrey's survival. There is no immediate way of knowing whether the cancer in the left lung spread from the lung before the operation. If it didn't, a five year period of close observation before the operation can be termed a success.

'Packer Night' For Area Fans Set at FVGC

Coaches, Players to Make Appearances At Tuesday's Fete

Kaukauna — Final plans have been completed for the "Packer Night" program at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Fox Valley Golf club as a complete list of football dignitaries attending has been worked out by Arthur H. Mongin, Packer director and organizer of the program.

Held as an appreciation gesture to area fans who support the team, it is open to the public without charge and will give citizens the opportunity to question top officials and players in the organization. Films of the 1958 season will also be shown.

Heading the list of guests will be Coach Vince Lombardi and his entire staff of Phil Bengston, defensive coach; Norb Hecker, end coach; Red Cochran, backfield coach, and Bill Austin, offensive line coach. Players planning to attend are Bob Skoronski, Gary Knafle, Jim Temp and Tom Bettis.

Other Dignitaries

Others present will be Dominic Olejniczak, club president; Dick Bourguignon, vice president; Tony Canadeo, former Packer star and now a member of the executive board, and John Stathis and Carl Mray of the executive board.

Jack Vainisi, business manager and talent scout, Verne C. Llewellyn, administrative assistant, and Tom Miller, publicity director. Several of these men are no strangers to area fans, having appeared at the appreciation night last year or at football banquets within the past few years.

Many of the guests will arrive early in the afternoon for a round of golf after which they will join members of the Lions club for dinner. Each of the guests will speak briefly.

The Kaukauna area is third in dollar volume of tickets sold, according to Mongin, and the appearance of the Packer "brass" is a way of expressing appreciation for the support.

Softball League To Open Monday At Kimberly

Kimberly — First round action will open Monday night in the Village Softball league at the Municipal Athletic field.

There are six teams in the circuit this season and games will be played each Monday. On opening night at 6:30 p.m., Bill's Bar captained by Joe Van Krey will meet Van Elzen's Orchards headed by Don Van Elzen. At 7:45 p.m. Tom's Standard Service captained by Ken Van Stralen will meet Dud's Inn headed by Allan Dietzler.

In the windup at 9 p.m., Carl Lemmers will lead Shy's Alley's against Vern and Harry's Bar captained by Tom Vandenberg.

League president Wayne Kilsdonk urged team captains to have teams set to go because the time schedule will be followed closely.

Public Card Party Set at Holy Cross By Christian Mothers

Kaukauna — The Christian Mothers Altar Society of Holy Cross parish will sponsor a public card party in the school activity room after perpetual help devotions Tuesday evening.

Prizes will be awarded for winners of various games and lunch will be served. Mrs. Elmer Doolittle is party chairman.

Sodality Breakfast On Sunday Morning

Little Chute — Members of the Blessed Virgin sodality of St. John High school will receive holy communion at the 7:30 a.m. mass Sunday.

A breakfast will follow in the grade school auditorium.

Sub-Par Round Opens Golf Play

Wayne Hull Captures Honors in Twilight League at Fox Valley

Kaukauna — Wayne Hull shot a 34, 1-under par to open the Twilight league season at Fox Valley Golf club. Runner-up honors went to Jim Swedberg and Ray Morgan with cards of 37.

Wiggie food jumped off to the team lead with a 49-31 win over Haas hardware. Tied for second with 47 points are Kaukauna Klub, Berg cleaners and Quella foods. Losers to these teams with respective point totals were Piggly Wiggly with 33, H. T. Runtz with 15 and Badger Northland with seven.

Haen insurance downed Schouten oil 46-25, Morgan printing downed Van Abel's 44-27, Royal clothing tied with Look drugs 40-40 and Better Brothers edged Ole and Kates 35-27. S and B tied with Minkebig Dry wall with 22 points each.

Bogey winners were C. J. Green, Pat Kenny, Ray Morgan and Howard Paschen. Players unable to compete on a Thursday night are to call Lou Glaser, club pro, to arrange for a substitute. Golfers failing to post their scores at the end of the round prevent their team from adding to the point total.

Frogmen Blamed For Ship Blast

Antwerp, Belgium — Police said Friday an explosion which wrecked a United Arab Republic ship March 13 was caused by a delayed action mine attached to the hull by frogmen. The frogmen's nationality and motive were not specified.

A report on the 2,700 ton Al Kahura was prepared by experts for the Belgian criminal investigation department. The explosion occurred in the Oostende harbor while the ship was tied up for engine repairs. No one was injured.

The ship had left Antwerp for Beirut in March carrying 1,200 tons of mixed cargo although its main cargo recently appeared to have been arms and ammunition bought by the U. A. R. in Europe.

Al Kahura developed engine trouble off Oostende and put in to port where the hull was split by the blast. Tugs later returned the ship to Antwerp.

Don't Have Tonsils Removed Unless There's Good Reason

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner. Is it true that children outgrow enlarged tonsils and adenoids? If so, at what age?" Three doctors have told me it is unnecessary to remove my 7-year-old son's tonsils and adenoids — G. W.

Yes — I suppose outgrow is as good a word as any. Anyway, it is true that tonsils and adenoids may become smaller and cease causing undesirable symptoms. The age is usually in the teens, but it can be later.

After three doctors have seen your son — and his tonsils — I'd say you had adequate reason to leave the tonsils alone. Nobody, not even three doctors, can give absolute assurance of what will happen in the future, but in this case you most assuredly have reason to wait and see, and the probability is that the operation will not be necessary.

Certainly not all tonsils and adenoids have to be removed. If there is some definite, clear reason, then go ahead, but don't do it just because I believe that the following are the main genuine reasons:

Main Reasons

Repeated colds with frequent sore throat, and enlarged glands in the neck.

Continuous drainage from the nose — which implies some obstruction interfering with normal drainage. The probable risk of chronic sinus trouble lurks in such cases.

One attack of acute infection of the ears, if tonsils and/or adenoids are enlarged. Repeatedly I have seen instances of recurring ear infection subside after removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Fever that cannot be explained. Tonsils need to harbor focally infection.

Can Affect Later Life

Of all the above, I would lay special emphasis on ear trouble and mastoid infection. The chronic draining ear and impaired hearing can be the result. However, a focal infection in the tonsils can be a factor in heart or kidney trouble later on in life.

The immediate consequences, however, are likely to be the ones we more associate with the "sickly child," one who is a poor eater, pale, and lacking in vigor.

If the tonsils need to come out, the removal often brings prompt improvement in eating habits and a gain in weight and growth.

As I've said so often before, I positively do not condone the indiscriminate removal of tonsils. Either have a good reason for removing them, or don't remove them. There are good reasons for having tonsils, and keeping them. The reasons for removing them must be real and concrete.

Very Unusual

"Dear Dr. Molner. Is it possible for menopause to begin at age 30? And does it have more severe effects on a person afflicted with an enlarged heart?" — Mrs. E. S.

It's possible but very unusual. There's no reason why it should have any effect on a person with an enlarged heart.

Repeated Treatment

Note to Mrs. J. V.: Repeated treatments sometimes are necessary to get rid of a tape worm. You are quite right in feeling that you must get rid of the head of the tapeworm. Otherwise it will continue to grow.

Girls' Club at Thilmany Plans To Adopt Child

Movie Scheduled in Fund Raising Effort For Foreign Aid

Kaukauna — A community wide drive was launched this week by the Thilco Girls' club in an effort to raise funds for its "save a child" program adopted recently.

Opening fund raising effort will be the showing of a movie, "The Inn Of The Sixth Happiness," at the Rialto theater May 20 through 23. Proceeds will be used to help the club adopt a foreign child, cost of maintaining the child is set at $120 per year.

The entire program is sponsored by the Save a Child Federation. Mrs. Bee Masiak heads the fund raising committee. Tickets are being sold at two drug stores in the community while club members are selling tickets in the paper mill and in the business districts.

Assisting Mrs. Masiak are Julie Flynn, Sue Berens, Almir DeBruin, Marie Taylor, Florence Ditter, Nancy Mathis, Jean Van Dyke, Marcelain Vandenberg and Beulah Coenen.

After the adoption is arranged, the club will assume obligations for the youngster and will hold future events to help meet the dollar quota for aiding a child.

LC-K to Open Home Season On Sunday

Little Chute — The Little Chute — Kimberly baseball team will open the Fox Valley league season entertaining Manitowoc at 2 p.m. Sunday here.

Village presidents Paul Kostka of Little Chute and Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly will participate in pre-game ceremonies.

Co-managers Floyd Hammen and Elmer Kobs have not selected a starting pitcher. Bob Schmidt, Al Harke and Faye Mehlberg will be available for duty.

The rest of the starting lineup will be selected from Gene Peerenboom, first base, Ron Weigman, second, Hammen, short stop; Jim Kilsdonk, third; Clair Bolwerk and Bud Thein, infielders; Hank Peerenboom, catch and outfielders Phil Williams, Rog Vander Wyl, Bill Van Elzen and Bernie Van Rooy.

21st New Home Permit Issued

Kaukauna — The twenty-first new home permit of the year was issued by Lothar Kemp, building inspector, to Allan Mischler, 218 Taylor street, Little Chute.

Mischler will construct a 1-story home with attached garage at 405 W. Thirteenth street, cost estimated at $10,000. Mrs. Leo Verhagen, 1809 Florence street, was issued a permit to build a 6 by 30 foot addition to her home at an estimated cost of $1,600.

Hans Buetow, 301 W. Seventh street, was issued a permit for alterations to a home costing an estimated $2,000.

Robber Terrorizes Couple in Utah Home

Logan, Utah — An armed masked man terrorized an elderly couple for 90 minutes early Friday before the woman sneaked out and ran to neighbors who called police.

Chief of Police L. H. Drakulich said it was the first armed robbery in Logan in 25 years.

Drakulich said the man escaped with $5,000 to $6,000 in jewelry plus about $130 in cash from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford W. Lundberg. He is a prominent Logan businessman.

The burglar who carried a revolver and a knife awakened the Lundbergs when he shined a flashlight in their faces about 1 a.m. apparent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the state graded school.

Canadian J. A. Robert Pichette, twelfth generation direct descendant of Jean Nicolet, studies the route map of Charles House's canoe trip from Montreal to the Fox river valley. House will retrace the 900-mile voyage made by the first white man to come to Wisconsin in 1634. Charlie's exploits and adventures as he makes his trek by canoe, alone and through some fairly wild Canadian back country, will be carried daily except Saturday in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Canadian Has Personal Interest in Canoe Trip

Green Bay — "I don't believe it has ever been done before," said J. A. Robert Pichette, a direct lineal descendant of Jean Nicolet.

He made the remark Thursday in Green Bay after learning of Charles House's intended 900-mile trek along the challenging waterways from Montreal to Menasha.

Pichette, a genealogist by training and vocationally a priest-candidate, would be aware of many things involving the trip taken by the Sieur de Belleborn back in 1634.

Eagerly tracing the route to be taken by the Post-Crescent feature writer, Pichette volunteered that he had heard of many groups which had periodically started the voyage but hadn't completed it.

Each gave it up because of hardship or weather conditions," he said. "The astounding thing about Mr. House's trip is that he should attempt it alone," was his admiring comment.

History-Minded

One of eight children and 12 generations removed from his famous grandire, Pichette has been Canadian national history conscious since he was a small boy.

Although he didn't make a career out of studying Nicolet's life and times, he came tolerably close to that occupation through his incessant quest for materials and information concerning crests and coats of arms of the old families in the former New France.

Pichette makes his home in Edmunston, New Brunswick, Canada. Currently, he is engaged on a research scholarship in the Canada Council of Fine Arts collecting every available note on New France history.

Nicolet Name

Of particular interest to him on his first visit to northern Wisconsin this week was the wide attention given the name Nicolet in the Green Bay area.

"There is more attention paid to his name here than anywhere I've been in Canada," he said.

Accompanying Pichette to Green Bay was Walter Hornstein, former publisher of the Marquette Mining Journal. The Canadian is the latter's house guest in Garden Mich.

OCTC Students Donate Sign

Kaukauna — A large sign placed in front of Outagamie County Teachers college and presented to the school by members of the sophomore class, will be dedicated in brief ceremonies at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Students from the campus school will be special guests. The program will open with the planting of trees around the sign after which Miss Lileen Moeller will read "Trees." Janet Deroun will present the speech as the sign is given to S. W. Ihlenfeldt, president, and he in turn will give a "thank you" message.

The program will close with students and teachers joining in the pledge to the flag.

COF Team Plays First Contest

Little Chute — The Catholic Order of Forester baseball team is playing its first game of the season this afternoon at Oshkosh.

District Eagles To Air State Meeting Plans

Kaukauna — Eagle Aeries from Districts No. 2, 6 and 7 will meet at the Eagle club-rooms on Island street Sunday afternoon to discuss resolutions to be presented at the state meeting discuss membership drives and hear a report on state bowling.

Plans for Aerie activities for the coming month will be outlined and suggestions given on the organization of the state district for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Cities sending representatives will be Sturgeon Bay, Green Bay, Algoma, Kaukauna, Waupaca, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Berlin, Port Washington, Waupun, Fond du Lac, Beaver Dam, Ripon and Kaukauna.

A social hour will be held and lunch served after the business session with Tom Zornow, vice president, in charge.

Purchasing Committee Accepts Low Bid on 1959 Model Squad Car

Kaukauna — The purchasing committee of the common council will recommend to the council the purchase of a 1959 model squad car from Hietpas Motors.

Kaukauna low of three bids received. The committee is recommending an unused police car with a red light inside the vehicle rather than a flasher and light on top as has been the policy. The car is to be 2 tone court at a covered dish supper at 6 p.m. Monday at St. John grade school.

Senatorial Carpeting

The senate finally has settled the question of carpeting its new office building. Controversy over the building has been going on since the public got its first glimpse of it several months ago. So many things were found wrong there was some doubt that the senators ever would be able to make efficient use of it.

Recently, however, the discussion has centered about a proposal to spend $150,000 for carpeting to cover rubber tile floors which never were intended to be covered. The question finally has been settled by merely leaving it up to the senators as to whether or not they will want carpeting in their suites. As now arranged, each senator has a 5-room suite and the senator's room is covered with heavy carpeting befitting the senator's station in life. The other four rooms, however, have tile floors. All of the rooms are entitled to new furniture if the senator so desires and most of the 40 now occupied have new furniture.

The new building is such a monstrosity that many senators have elected to remain in the old senate office building. Sen. Douglas of Illinois, who has been very much opposed to either new carpeting or new furniture for the new building, is one of those who has elected to remain in the old building. There the senator from Illinois has six rooms in his suite and is about to be assigned two additional rooms. Further, the rooms in the old building are carpeted. When Sen. Chavez pointed these facts out to Sen. Douglas the gentleman from Illinois was quick to promise that he would have all of the carpeting taken up and sent over for use in the new office building if Sen. Chavez thought there was any danger of people slipping on the tile floors.

Sen. Chavez, in attempting to clear his committee of any responsibility for extravagance in furnishing the new building, pointed out that before any furniture had been ordered a questionnaire was sent to each senator asking whether he wanted to move into the new building and whether he wanted to take the old furniture with him or to have new furniture provided. Seventy-two per cent of the senators who answered wanted to move to the new building and to have new furniture. Thus the senate extravagance is nothing that was forced upon the senators. They asked for it.

During the discussion, Sen. Langer of North Dakota remarked that some years ago, before he was reelected, he had thought of taking his old desk back to North Dakota with him. With that in mind he had it appraised so that he would know what he had to pay for it. To his surprise he learned that the desk was valued at $800. Now there are thousands of dollars worth of desks, chairs, furniture and bookcases stacked up in the corridors of the old office building of the kind and value suggested by Sen. Langer's price of $800 for one desk while new furniture is going into the new office building. Sen. Douglas mentioned that there are 400 chairs, 85 good wooden bookcases, some 215 steel filing cases with four drawers each and of course a number of desks.

It was an interesting discussion and more time was devoted to the effort to save the cost of the carpeting than will be given to millions to be spent otherwise, but it does give the people a little glimpse into the thinking of some of our senators. The fact is many of them are like a bunch of children, and because they are, they are moving into a new building merely because it is new, leaving behind old furniture that is perhaps better than the new furniture they have requested, and will be skating about on tile floors whereas there will be vacant offices fully carpeted in the old building. In the meantime, there is no indication any money has been saved by the discussion. Soon the senators all will have carpeting if they want it and new furniture, too, and nothing further will be said about it.

Meeting at Geneva

All the foreign ministers meeting in Geneva this week have expressed hope and even confidence that their talks may smooth the way to, at the most, an end to the cold war and, at the least, a lessening of tensions. The optimism is commendable but it shouldn't blind the eyes of the west to the facts.

Perhaps the best thing that could come from the conference, from our point of view, would be to re-establish the unity of NATO in opposition to any aggressive moves by Russia. At this meeting, as at most, the west is on the defensive. Agreements do not concern merely retaining the status quo. Russia has made a demand and, obviously, expects concessions from the west before she will retract the demand. This type of bargaining, popular in the market place, is dangerous in international affairs since the free world makes no such aggressive moves. A similar situation, with the shoe on the other foot, would occur if we demanded the withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary on threat of our invasion, and then withdrew the demand in exchange for a reduction of Russian forces in Poland. But the west is unable to risk such haggling techniques since it fears to start something it might not be able to back up.

If we look realistically at the German picture it appears there is little that can be done in the way of compromise. Russia may hesitate to pull out of East Germany in the face of western refusal to do so. But that is merely maintaining the status quo. Surely our representatives at Geneva do not expect the Russians to lift the iron curtain and actually permit the uniting, culturally and economically, of all Europe. For the west to retreat from Berlin would be disaster, an open invitation to the Russians to press again on some other front, a collapse of faith in NATO by members and desperate neutrals alike, a sell-out of West Germany. A buffer state would be a concession really only on our side.

Perhaps the talks of the foreign ministers will find room for agreement and the path toward a summit meeting. As long as people are talking they probably are not shooting. But conversation does not halt infiltration or the sly, sneaky advances of communist threats and intrigues. The Kurds are still being transported to Iraq. The Tibetans are still being shot down on their flights to freedom.

Sec. Herter wisely pointed out on the eve of his journey that the cold war would not be ended overnight. In the haste of the west for peace there is danger that we may forget that the one sure way to end the cold war is capitulation. And small concessions lead inexorably to big ones.

What Others are Saying

New Senate Building Alterations May Cost Half Million Dollars

From The Engineering News-Record

Washington — Mouns of anguish — both mental and physical — have replaced the cries of joy with which U. S. Senators first greeted their new office building. The senators have a list of grievances that add up to half a million dollars or so in necessary modifications. And who will pay? Uncle Sam?

Voted for over a decade ago, the building was finished and waiting for the lawmakers at the end of the Easter recess. By and large, they liked what they saw — a gleaming 7-story structure of white Vermont marble, with impressively big hearing rooms equipped with the latest in public address systems, handsome bronze light fixtures and heavy walnut doors.

But a tide of disillusionment followed the early wave of cheer as the senators began to find flaws in their $26-million quarters. Some went so far as to call it a "colossal blunder."

Although the words seem strong, the senators do have a list of grievances. No More Secrets. To their horror, they discovered that — due to louvered doors and insufficient soundproofing — their private office conversations can be heard plainly in the public hallways.

Driveways to the 2-level underground garage apparently were designed for cars of a bygone day. The low-slung 1959 models drag at the center on the incline's top and drag on both ends at the bottom.

This will be costly and complicated to fix because automatic electric snow melting equipment is imbedded in the concrete drive.

In the hearing rooms, the senators sit on a raised dais that keeps them a considerable distance from witnesses, and — with elections due soon — they no longer show up in the background when the witness is photographed.

Fear Loss of Dignity. Also, one committee worried that the senators, when stepping from the raised dais into an adjoining room, would neglect to make the step down — with disastrous consequences to their dignity and bone structure.

As a result a raised platform complete with shiny hand rails was extended into the adjoining room.

The office building was equipped with the latest in automatic elevators. But someone forgot that impatient senators traditionally buzz three times when they want immediate elevator service. The new machines are not set up to record anything beyond the first buzz.

Floors Dangerous.

As a stop gap, two elevators have been set aside for senators. Now the experts are trying to "retrain" the elevators to recognize and answer a senator's urgent call.

Two girls already have been hospitalized from falls on the expensive, but slick, rubber tile flooring used through most of the building. And the tile does nothing to absorb the clatter of office machines. Result: Wall-to-wall carpeting is being proposed for all offices at a cost of $150,000.

The new desks for the senators' employes proved to be so low slung that secretaries could not get their legs under them. Solution was simple if crude — wooden blocks were installed under the desk legs.

In the new hearing rooms, each senator is provided with individual control buttons to turn his microphone on and off. In practice, frustrated lawmakers have found themselves talking into dead makes one minute and having their private asides to their neighbors broadcast to the room the next.

And the amplifying system is hooked to the bell system by which senators are summoned to the floor for important votes. The bells are designed to have a soft, soothing tone, but they hoot like a fog horn when amplified by the speaker system.

When it comes to placing the blame, the collective senatorial face turns red. Design and construction were supervised and approved, every step of the way, by the senate office building commission — a group of senators chosen by the senate itself.

By Donald Culross Peattie

This is an old tale, and not a pretty one; it is a true tale, and it sounds to me like a ballad — the ballad of Cynthia Ann.

By all accounts, she was a very pretty little girl. The women, trying to describe her afterwards, said she had blue eyes and light hair — flax-flower eyes, I fancy, wheat straw hair that curled softly at the temples. Cynthia Ann Parker was in her

Both tragedy and beauty haunt this real "West em," a fragment of America's past as told here by a famous author who spent 15 years traveling and studying western history and who labels this tale as "unforgettable."

ninth year on the last day of Fort Parker, which was May 19, 1836.

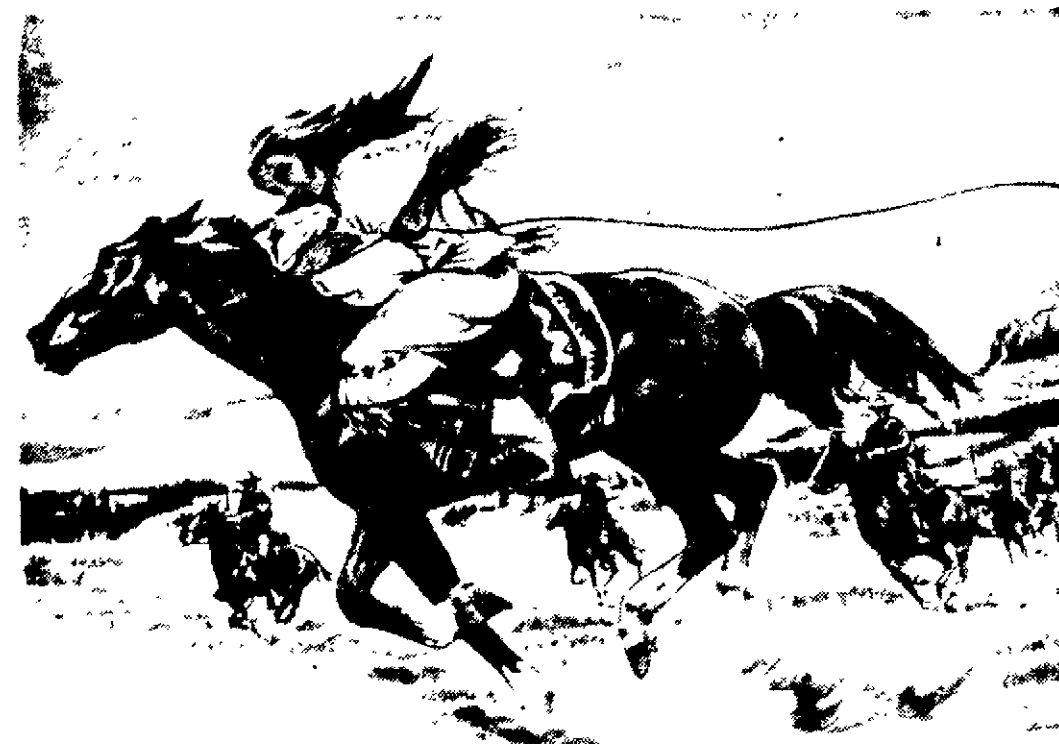

That day dawned warm, then turned to a regular east-Texas hot spring morning. For a while the women in Parker's Fort could hear their men's voices out in the fields in the shimmering heat waves. Then the voices drifted away down the long furrows.

Soldiers Gone

The people there numbered only 35 souls. Patriarch of them all was Elder John Parker, Cynthia Ann's grandfather, who had led his people across the Red river into the Canaan of Texas soil. There wasn't a soldier left in their fort on the Navasota river. The Republic of Texas had pulled them all out some weeks ago, now that the Indian frontier had retreated a hundred miles to the west. Nobody that morning was thinking of Indians; why should they?

Then, suddenly, out of the prairie heat waves — they were there: Comanches and Kiowas, some afoot, some sitting ponies. The braves weren't yelling or brandishing their shields of buffalo hides. They were just staring in silence — a long, deadly stillness. Even the buffalo horns and the eagle plumes of their headdresses hardly stirred.

Benjamin Parker, Cynthia Ann's youngest uncle, went out to meet them and play for time — enough for Cynthia's cousin to run for the fields with the alarm. Ben talked as long as he could, then came into the fort to say the Indians showed by sign they wanted beef. There was none, so he went back to temporize. He was the first to die. They clubbed, speared, and scalped him under the aghast eyes at the port-holes in the log stockade.

Futile Stand

Now the yells broke. The mounted Indians dashed their ponies in a noose around the fort. They swept up young Mrs. Elizabeth Kellogg, Rachel Plummer, a child in her arms and another inside her, was dragged away by her hair along the ground. The folding gate of wooden slabs yielded to the blows of the hostiles. As it burst in, one scream tore the throats of the 10 women, the 15 children. With them were only four men. They had time for a single burst of firing, a single yell of triumph as a few Indians fell. Then all the men were overpowered, killed, stripped and scalped.

Indians Repulsed

Cynthia Ann heard her mother's voice urging her on, but she couldn't outrun those long, coppery legs. Her own mother was forced to set her on a pony's back and stand "taring after her as she was borne away.

From the fields came the rest of the men, crouching as they ran. Their line of fire was a ragged popping; these were farmers who had never before shot anything more dangerous than a snake or hawk. But they turned back the Comanche charge, and then another, and gained time for the children and women to scatter like quail in the brush down by the Navasota's banks.

The Indians didn't charge again. They were dealing with the much cows now, filling them full of arrows as so many pin cushions. Soon the farmers saw red and yellow flames war-dancing in the standing crops.

Deep in the woods the men began hunting for their families, children for their parents. These refugees were many starving days from safety. Yet they all made it back to the eastern settlements.

They Wouldn't Quit

Wouldn't you think they'd had enough of Fort Parker? Then you don't know your own American ancestors. For practically all of these people returned to the fort in a short time. They buried the bones, picked clean by wolves and vultures of their dead. They planted another crop that year.

And now the heathen wilderness began to give up some of those ravished away. Elizabeth Kellogg was the first to return. Unbroken in spirit, she had given such a thrashing to a squaw who was beating her that the Indians admiringly named her "Brave Woman." They sold her for $150 in trading goods to some of the Delawares (always allies of the whites) who brought her home. Rachel Plummer, that same autumn, was purchased by Sante Pe traders and brought back to her husband.

Secret Hideout

But the Indians had taken Cynthia Ann to a place that no honest white man ever saw — and lived. It is the ancient, most secret hideout of the Comanches. It is the lost and inaccessible valley where a stream comes down, between war-paint canyon walls, from the high Llano Estacado through the break of the cap rock. That stream was called the Rio de las Lenguas — "the river of tongues" — for the many tongues that were spoken here.

Into that blackness vanished Cynthia Ann. Years had passed, and Col. Len Williams was parleying with Pahuaka's band of Comanches down by the bank of the Canadian river. Heat and excitement fevered the colonel's impatience. For the colonel himself hadn't a doubt of the identity of that blond girl of 13 among the Comanches. Promptly he had offered to buy her freedom; proudly Pahuaka replied that members of his tribe were not for sale. The colonel then asked to speak with the girl, and received the startling answer that the chief would have to get the permission of her mother and father.

The Lost Child

Now the girl, in Indian dress, walked slowly out of the group and toward him, her eyes on the ground. At the colonel's feet she sat down, as a modest Comanche girl does before a man. The colonel spoke coolly, kindly. Her family had been hunting her for years. Her place waited for her, and a warm welcome. And he promised to raise any sum for her ransom that the Indians might ask.

She raised her eyes. And what he saw was nothing he had ever seen before in the gaze of any woman, least of all in the look of a young white girl. In that long glance he saw the Llano — the endless level of the high-lifted short-grass plain, where there is nothing from dawn to sunset to give back an echo. Even the blue of those eyes was like the Llano sky.

He dropped his own startled gaze. It's no use, he knew. There's nothing we can do with this. Let us go.

Girl Returns

Yes, they went, and they let her go back. For there is no fugitive so difficult to pursue as the freed will of a woman — unless it is a Comanche.

The tribe was, in those days, the whirlwind itself, possessed of the greatest horsemanship in history. With horses, the Comanches striking power was fluid as the Llano wind. The West Point style of cavalry charge was useless against a foe who could hang by his heels while galloping, and shoot arrows under the horse's neck so fast that he could keep eight of them in the air all the time.

Squaws, too, rode like the wild spirits of the air; they too could hang by their

Today and Tomorrow

Partition of Germany Will be Continued

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The question of whether to confer at a round table, as the soviets wanted or at a square table, as we preferred was not in itself important. But it is very interesting. For it is an early sample of the kind of negotiations which are now beginning, negotiations which opened at Geneva and will go on to the summit, perhaps in San Francisco. It will be a negotiation not so much about what shall be done as about how it shall be done.

Thus in Bonn and in Paris, no less than in London, Washington, and Moscow, it is accepted as a fact that the two German states cannot be united during these negotiations. The real controversy, as between west and east, and also in some measure within the west, will turn on how to deal legally, politically, and psychologically with the fact that West Berlin will remain within the western community while it is located within the eastern community.

These are not insoluble problems in that at bottom both sides will accept in substance the status quo. The problems, though not insoluble, are, however, complex and subtle. For the juridical form in which the status quo is accepted will have far-reaching political and psychological consequences in both Germanys, in West Berlin itself, and indeed indeed in all of Europe.

If, for example, the partition of Germany were recognized publicly and definitively, the political consequences in West Germany would almost surely be very serious. It would mark the total defeat of Adenauer and of his party, and no one could foresee what they could mean in the coming German elections of 1961.

If on the other hand, there is no recognition of the fact that there are two German states, and if the Soviet Union openly abandoned East Germany as a state, treating it as mere occupied territory, there would be a strong incentive and much provocation for an East German revolt. When West Germany is rearmed, perhaps with nuclear weapons, an East German revolt would be a very great danger to the peace of the world.

The moral of this is that the real problems will require a high degree of statesmanship and that they cannot be solved by pounding the table and playing to the gallery.

The hard part of the negotiation, which will have to be carried on quietly and off-stage, will consist in devising juridical and political formulae which accommodate the political and psychological imponderables. This will not be easy to do, especially if it has to be done with constant stamping, whistling and cat-calls from the gallery about who has won what, who has given away what, who is a tool or a knave.

There are two things which we need not worry about. One is that Washington and London will betray Bonn and Paris. They will not. The other thing we need not worry about is that Bonn and Paris have a veto which they will exercise to prevent us from negotiating what has to be negotiated. Bonn and Paris have no such

The other thing we need not worry about is that Bonn and Paris have a veto which they will exercise to prevent us from negotiating what has to be negotiated. Bonn and Paris have no such veto power, and they know it.

The problem within the alliance does not lie in any fundamental and substantial conflict of purposes, or even in any important difference of estimate as to what is the reality of the existing situation. The problem within the alliance is how to enable West Germany to accommodate itself politically and psychologically to the reality that there will be two Germanys for the indefinite future.

This will be a hard experience for the Germans. Historians may well say that in this experience the role France has chosen for itself is not to say yes to Adenauer, but to promote in West Germany the alternative to German reunification — which is Franco-German unity in a West European community. Mike Wallace Heads New Panel Quiz Show

'Pantomime Quiz' to Become ABC-TV Nighttime Feature Monday, June 8

BY JINGO
"Who Pays?" a panel quiz show starring Mike Wallace as emcee and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Celeste Holm and Gene Klavan as panelists bows on NBC-TV at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 2. At that time, "The Lawless Years" will move back a half hour replacing "Too Young to Go Steady."

Idea of "Who Pays?" puts the three celebrities on stage, along with three others they cannot see. Three people who work for those out-of-sight celebs will give the panel clues to the mystery guests' identity.

This whole thing ought to prove conclusively that summer television leaves quite a bit to be desired.

But, then, maybe it'll come across better on the screen.

Mike Stokely's "Pantomime Quiz" becomes a nighttime ABC-TV feature on ABC-TV, starting Monday night, June 8. Take "Thee" on Thursday. You see it afternoons now and night, June 4. You will continue to when the NBC-TV News bit nighttime show starts. . . . about wedded bliss probably ABC-TV's "Polka-Go-Round" was inspired by CBS-TV's expands to a full hour on Monday night, June 1.

A special skating extravaganza, "Summer on Ice," will star Rosemary Clooney, Tab Hunter, Tony Randall and the entire cast of "Ice Capades of '59" on NBC-TV Monday night, June 1. . . . CBS-TV day nights starting Sept. 29, held steady. One car cheddars will carry the PGA tourney, "The Lineup" will become Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1 an hour show in the fall. . . . "Hall of Fame" has signed single daisies offered at 33¢. NBC-TV News will take an hour-long look at love and next season on NBC-TV. . . . weak on large styles, steady marriage in America in "I Wagon Train" has been renewed for Wednesday nights next season. . . . "Cheyenne," star Clint Walker back in the saddle, starts Sept. 21 on ABC-TV, but takes time out five times before Christmas for "Shirley Temple Storybook" episodes. Both will be regular Monday night features.

Add to list of shows which have been renewed: "Tales of Wells Fargo" and "Howdy Doody", . . . William Demarest's new series "Love and Marriage" has snagged a sponsor for Monday nights on NBC-TV starting Sept. 21. . . . Stop and think about it: Milton Berle had the best line of the Emmy awards — There were so many awards there were 50 shows in the top ten. . . . Saturday's show marks the start of summer repeats for "People Are Funny."

Newly-wed Julie Andrews, Phil Silvers and David Rose are Jack Benny's guests for his hour special next Saturday night on CBS-TV. . . . Connie Russell, one of a host of stars in the "America Pauses" special Monday night on CBS-TV, was a Jingo favorite on the old David Garraway show from Chicago.

Sewer Bonds May Include AVS Addition

$750,000 Loan Could Be Boosted $106,000 For School Building

Action on starting a $750,000 city sewer bond sale has been withheld by the city council's finance committee.

It may be possible, City Clerk Broehm explained, to add another $106,000, anticipated construction cost of an addition to the vocational school.

A decision on whether the addition will be made is expected to come Tuesday after the vocational school board opens bids and hurries a tabulation to the board of public works for approval.

The $750,000 would be projected to finance, in part, these projects:

(a) Extension of W. Lindbergh street sanitary sewer gravity line, $6,500; (b) sanitary trunk sewer from the sewerage treatment plant to the river, under the river, up the north bank to Ballard road, is about $56,000 left from earlier Pershing street and western bond issues to pay for Pershing street, $345,000; other sewer projects.

UW Art Head To Speak at Appleton High

Dr. Frederick M. Logan, professor of art and art education at the University of Wisconsin, will be the guest speaker for the second annual open house of the art department of Appleton High School Wednesday evening.

The open house has become an annual undertaking by the art workshop and the senior art students so the public can view the work of the students and hear different ideas on art education.

In addition to the talk by Prof. Logan, there will be displays of art work, and refreshments served by the students.

Prof. Logan did his undergraduate work at Wisconsin State college in Milwaukee and taught at the Milwaukee public schools before going to Madison. He studied at the teachers' college at Columbia university in New York where he received his master's degree and at the Chicago Art Institute.

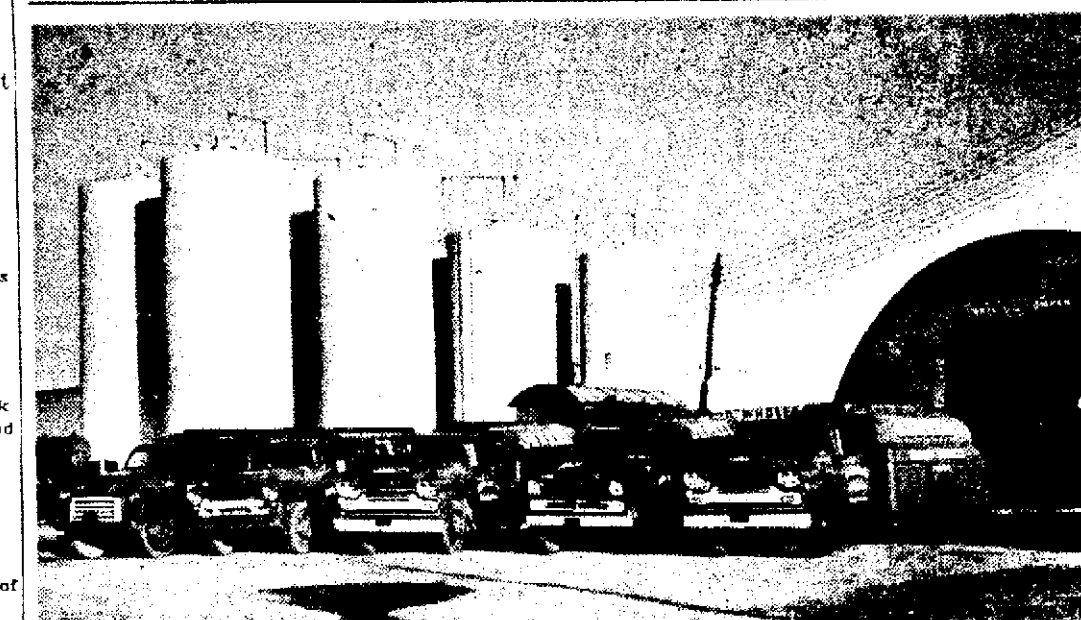

Well-known nationally for his work in art, Logan is now chairman of the national council of art education and a member of the Society for the Study of Aesthetics and of the Western Art association. His articles have appeared in the College Art Journal, in Review of Educational Research, and in the NAFA annual.

Home for Aged Owner Fined

17-Month-Old Case Ends, $10 Penalty For Zone Violation

An operator of a home for the aged at 1427 E. Wisconsin avenue has been fined $10 for running the home in a single-family zone, violating a city ordinance.

The case is 17 months old, first begun in municipal court because it is not licensed.

Jan. 31, 1958. Since the first trial date was set as April 18, 1958, the case has been continued several times.

The city charged Mrs. Leona Salm operated her home for the aged in a house on the rear portion of a lot at 1427 E. Wisconsin. A second house, also owned by Mrs. Salm, is on the part of the lot fronting on E. Wisconsin, a commercial and light manufacturing zone.

The issue arose when Mrs. Salm contacted the state to be licensed as a home for the aged. At present, welfare agencies will not send persons under their care to her home first begun in municipal court because it is not licensed.

Niagara Magnificent $5,000 Gold Chair Home Show Hit

Stealing the spotlight as one of the star attractions at the Valley Fair Shopping Center merchant's association sponsored Home Garden-Food Show is the 24 kt gold leather covered Niagara Cycle-Massage chair on display in the firm's sales and showrooms at the center. Termed the "golden jubilee chair," built in recognition of the 50,000th chair manufactured by Niagara and the 10th anniversary of the firm, the fabulous truly spectacular glittering chair display was built entirely as a show piece and not for sale purposes. It has an estimated value between $5,000 to $6,000. Handsomely styled in the provincial manner it is go. The display was used in large retail stores in these cities with the exception of Springfield where it was used as the attraction in the center of the Niagara booth at New England's largest fair, the Eastern States Exposition. While the gold chair will be on exhibition at the Valley Fair home show today until 9 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 5 p.m., it is possible that the showing may continue at Niagara for a few days following the event until instructions are received regarding shipment to its next destination. Free sound movies are also being shown at Niagara during the home show in connection with the special gold chair presentation.

their appliances work and all the important features. Good Housekeeping started in business in 1936, selling and servicing laundry equipment. In 1957 they moved to their present location. Their floor space has been increased 14 times.

Good Housekeeping carries the largest stock of parts for washers and dryers and vacuum cleaners north of Milwaukee. They carry parts, not only for their own appliances, but for most all other makes also. Slezak says they encourage do-it-yourselfers to come in for parts and the service men will be happy to tell them how repairs are to be made and answer any questions.

Because of their outstanding sales performance, Good Housekeeping has been chosen the exclusive sales and service outlet in Appleton for both RCA Whirlpool and Easy appliances.

At Good Housekeeping you make your own time payment arrangements because they have their own financing department.

Brides-to-be are urged to stop at Good Housekeeping Shop and inquire about the unique lay-away plan on appliances.

For over a quarter of a century women in the Fox Cities have depended upon Good Housekeeping Shop for service on their laundry equipment.

Men in Good Housekeeping full time basis. The men who are pictured above are Harry Noack, Harry Slezak, Lee Crouch, Len Davis and Bob Vogel. These men sell and service automatic and conventional washers, refrigerators, ranges, dryers, vacuum cleaners and dehumidifiers. They are glad to explain how any of Wenzel Bros., one of Appleton's Oldest Plumbing and Heating concerns, has been in business since 1920. They are located on County Trunk P, in the town of Menasha, and are still ready and able to take care of any of your plumbing and heating problems. The firm is mainly occupied these days with construction of industrial, commercial and public buildings and all repair work in this field, but homeowners can also find they supply fast and efficient service. Wenzel Bros. usually employ between 15 and 20 men and handle Kohler, Crane and American Standard plumbing and heating equipment. RESULTS of a Wicked Winter are apparent when broken or leaky gutters appear after a sudden spring thunderstorm. Annie Handel and Don McKinley are inspecting rusty holes in one such gutter found in an Appleton home. McKinley Sales will send an experienced sheetmetal mechanic with no obligation to inspect and estimate your gutters and drains now. Call RE 4-7166.

"Do you have gutter trouble?" Don McKinley of McKinley Sales asks homeowners this spring. He suggests an immediate inspection to inspect and make sure that all gutters and drains necessary repairs, McKinley to determine if the heavy snow and ice we have had metal mechanics at McKinley this winter has caused any leaks are qualified to replace or repair all gutters. McKinley says that snow slides on roofs often crush or without obligations. If snow tear off gutters and often ice or ice or tornado storms have forming in the gutters will caused havoc at your home, rupture soldered joints, call McKinley's, RE 4-7166.

George Bayer Ties Record Shoots Hot 63 For 5-Stroke Lead At Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark. — George Bayer of Glenageles, Ill., took his torrid putter and a 5-stroke lead into the third round of the $22,000 Hot Springs Open Golf tournament today.

Bayer was magic on the greens Friday as he tamed the Arlington Country club course with a record-tying 63 for a 36-hole total of 131.

It was the second straight day the Hot Springs lead was bought with a score matching the competitive course record. Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., grabbed the first-round lead with a 63 Thursday, but he soared to 1-over-par 73 Friday for a 136 total.

Tied with Wall were Wes Ellis, Jr., of Alderess, N.J.; Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif.; Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N.C.; and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Lefty John Anderson's 3rd Straight Win, 7-2, Gives Demons Opener of Series

Des Moines, Iowa — Des Moines' John Anderson was easy to hit, but hard to score upon Friday night and the crafty left hander moved to his third straight victory, 7-2, over the Fox Cities Foxes.

It wasn't only as a pitcher that Anderson excelled, he also slapped a double and a single and knocked in two runs in the series opener. The success, Des Moines seventh in nine games, kept the Demons in a virtual tie for first place with Lincoln in the Three-I league.

3'58 Champs In Adler Brau Open Field

55 Entries Received For Tournament June 6th and 7th

Three defending champions are already in the field for the annual Adler Brau open Golf tournament which will be held June 6 and 7 at Appleton's Reid Municipal golf course.

Fifty-five entries have been received thus far by Laymon "Doc" Wonsler, tournament manager. Wonsler says he expects about 200 entries in the 1959 meet before the June 2 entry deadline.

Indicating they will defend their 1958 crowns have been: Don Strutz, tourney champion; Dave Grasska, Oshkosh "A" flight tillist; and Orv Strutz, Appleton, "B" flight winner.

Entries thus far have been received from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Green Bay, and Oshkosh.

There are four flights in the tournament, championship, "A", "B" and Senior (over age 50 as of June 6). The entry fee is $2 and entries must be in or postmarked by midnight, June 2.

Tee-off times are 10 to 1:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 to 11 p.m. Sunday. Golfers can indicate on their entry blank their preferred starting time for both days. Entries should be sent to "Doc" Wonsler, 1504 W. Brewster St., Appleton.

The tourney is 36 holes of medal play, 18 each day.

Cleveland Nips Boston, 4-3, To Stay Half-Game in Front

By The Associated Press [kept the second-place White Sox within a half-game of the 20-game winner and one of the best left-handers now pushing, finally is catching up with the New York Yankees.

At 32, Pierce has only a 21.30 lifetime record against the Yankees, but he gained his fifth victory in his last six decisions against them Friday night, blanking New York on six singles for a 6-0 Chicago victory that gave the suddenly-hot White Sox a 7-game streak.

Longest in Majors
It was Chicago's second victory in three games against the Yankees, and both belong to Pierce, who became the first southpaw to shut out the champs since Cleveland's Herb Score did it August 21, 1956.

The 7-game streak—longest in the majors this season—

Wisconsin Tops Ohio State, 6-3

Madison — Ed Cannon's two-run double speared a 5-run rally Friday as the Wisconsin baseball team bagged its fifth victory in 10 Big Ten starts by beating Ohio State, 6-3.

Jim Fegneby and Dick Van Erden added to the Badger batting punch with two hits each. Wisconsin collected eight hits off loser Tony Drobnick and Jim Walton who came on in the fourth.

Dave Murray and Bob Stearn hanged out six of the nine hits allowed by the Badgers' Marly Stillman.

Ohio State is now 6-4 in the conference.

FRV League Opens Campaign Sunday

9 Teams in Circuit; LC-K Begins Title Defense in Home Game Against Manitowoc

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha—Nine teams go to the post as the Fox River Valley Baseball league, the area's strongest amateur circuit, opens its campaign Sunday afternoon.

All of last year's teams return except Two Rivers, which has been granted a year's leave of absence. Opening day games are Kaukauna at Oshkosh, Harrison at Reedsville, Menasha at Appleton Valley Fair and Manitowoc versus Little Chute. Kimbly at Little Chute. Freedom draws the first week's bye.

Little Chute-Kimbly is the defending champion. It dethroned the Macs in a 2-of-3 game playoff series. The Macs had won the first-round crown and the combination team swept through the second.

Plan Ceremonies
Several clubs are planning opening day ceremonies with the various mayors or village heads throwing out the first ball. A record is kept of the first game's attendance at each park and a trophy will be awarded to the team with the largest crowd on opening day.

Although Little Chute-Kimbly opens at home, it will not have its pre-game festivities until May 24 because of another activity in the village this weekend.

New managers are Ed Vesely, Reedsville, Don Phillips, Manitowoc; and Ron Gall, Menasha. Returnees are Gene Kloes, Valley Fair; Jim Vandewettering, Freedom; Jerry Klarer, Kaukauna; Floyd Hammen and Elmer Kobs, Little Chute; Kimbly; "Swede" Erickson, Oshkosh; and Louis VanRossum, Harrison.

Former Pro Stars
Most of the teams will not be at full strength for a couple of weeks, at least, until the high schools and colleges have completed their schedules. Menasha will be aided by the return of Vic Stenson, No. 1 hurler at Miami University, and Gene Gries, St. Norbert southpaw. Manitowoc's Ron Brault, Two Rivers moundsman the last two seasons, is now a freshman at Colorado.

The league again boasts a large contingent of former pro players including Don Edinger, Reedsville; Bob Maulick and Vande Wettering, Freedom; Gall, Carl Springer, Bill Bone and "Butch" Konetzke, Menasha; Bill Lapp, Kaukauna; "Bud" Koehnke and Dave Trinrud, Valley Fair; Rog Vanderwyst, Phil Williams and Hammen, Little Chute, and Erickson, Dick Bixby and Len Heinbigner, Oshkosh, just to name a few.

Personnel Changes
John Streyzewski, outstanding pitcher and hitter for Manitowoc last year, started the season with Sanford in the Florida State league but has drawn his release and will be around until joining a rookie league in June.

Personnel changes within the league include "Butch" Fahrenkrug from Valley Fair to Kaukauna; Bob Karisny and Jim Meyer from Valley Fair to Menasha; Koehnke and John DeYoung, Menasha to Valley Fair; and Len Heinbigner, Menasha to Oshkosh.

Russ Kemmerer, who had won four straight, had the A's blanked until the seventh when Hector Lopez rapped a 3-run homer to wrap it up for Kansas City.

Harrison, Snead Pace Field
White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. — The old guard of golf represented by 49-year-old E. J. "Dutch" Harrison and 47-year-old Sam Snead were lorded it over the new crop again today swinging into the third round of the twelfth annual festival at Snead's domain.

Harrison stepped into the halfway lead of the 72-hole Snead Festival Friday with his second workmanlike 2-under-par 68.

Snead fell a stroke off his opening 68, but his 137 total still kept him in the threatening runner-up spot.

For Fishing, Hunting
CC Approves Expenditures of $150,160 for Land Acquisition

Madison — The Wisconsin Conservation commission approved Thursday expenditures totaling $150,160 for acquisition of land for fishing and hunting.

Of the amount, $92,707 was for buying property as recommended by the fisheries division and was the largest sum in the history of the department. The purchase included 1,167, Gloria Zimmer - Willie gle outlay on record for fish - Karnopp 1,167, Eve Vnuk - Bob Aylward 1,163 and Nita involved more than 2,000 L. P. Voigt, department director, told the commission.

A total of 1,561 acres, cost there has been a noticeable increase in recent months in game purposes. The game management division said it from organizations to assist in had preliminary plans for department projects.

Communities are presented are the Twin Cities, Fond du Lac, Green Bay and Sherwood.

Valley Fair Will Start Dave Trinrud

Valley Fair manager Gene Kloes has nominated Dave Trinrud, who spent last season in the professional Nebraska Rookie league, as his starter against the Menasha Macs in Sunday's league opener at Goodland field. Bill McGinnis will be his catcher. Jim Meyer and Don Gosz will make up the Mac battery.

Kloes announced that opening-day ceremonies will get underway at 2:15 p. m. May or Clarence Mitchell will throw out the first ball and Herman Schumacher, league president, will be the receiver. Flag raising ceremonies and a color guard are planned.

Revamped Lineup
Kloes announces that he has a revamped lineup this year, with a 60 per cent change in personnel. Jim Kirkland, 1958 league batting champion, will start in the outfield along with two of these four: Harry Johnson, John Landgraf, Lyle Dolven and Ron Schelfout.

Rounding out the roster are Jack Gullickson, "Bud" Koehnke, Dick Cornell, Joe Rickert, John De Young, Du Wayne Plamann, Herb Stoeger, Don Bodway, "Duke" Krabbe, Jim Ciske and Jim Reetz.

Don Loker Runs Mile In Sensational 4:29

jump that Lundstrom authored in 1946 was 6 feet, 3 inches. The third and final new record set on a cold night by a fiery group of athletes was in the 150-10 set by Central's Dave Zeinemann.

Central's team victory was record-setting in its own right. The Redmen, coached by Walt Anderson, are the first Sheboygan representatives ever to win the conference track and field crown. Neither an undivided Sheboygan (prior to 1938) nor the separate schools, Central and North, had been able to reach the pinnacle until last night.

With five firsts and a total of 57 points, Central finished eight markers ahead of Fond du Lac—which was also aiming for its first track title. Defending champion Green Bay West came in third.

Terrors Finish 6th
Loker registered the only first for Appleton, which wound up sixth. AHS seconds were earned by half-mile Bob Fritz, pole vaulter Dennis Tank and the sprint medley relay unit (Cal Klueess, Dave Reinke, Wayne Polzin and all-time Wisconsin best, 4:27).

The only other Terror score came on a fourth by Mike Frankze in the 100-yard dash and a fifth by Uwe Strehmel in the mile.

Second Oldest Mark
Loker knocked out the second oldest record (1937) in the 100-yard dash to become the only one to break the record. The only older one is the 1928 broad jump mark of Appleton's Chester (Tom) Posewitz (440) and West's Fred Dahmke (both are now owners of a conference record).

The piece de resistance of the evening was the first second-place finishers last night met in the mile event. The feat for the first time this team race was momentarily season. In the case of the forgotten as all eyes were directed toward the slender, bespectacled Loker as he lined up waiting for Starter Ray Hamann's signal. The fans were aware that Loker missed Ely Francis' (Manitowoc) conference record of 4:36 by only nine-tenths of a second last year. Could he do it in this, his final chance?

The dark-haired senior, a once-in-a-generation type of prep miler, gave the several hundred customers an electrifying answer.

2:11 at the Half
Running effortlessly, Loker turned in a 62-second first quarter. He circled the track again, coming to the midpoint at 2:11. Don had left all competitors far behind by this time, but his good sense of pace brought him to the three-quarters pole in 3:22.

The tension mounted as Loker arrived at the final 220 yards in 3:55. Would he have enough left to realize the dream of all prep milers, a sub-4:30?

He did. Loker came on like a behind-schedule streamliner, unleashing a strong kick in the final 150 yards to hit the tape at 4:29.

In breaking the 22-year-old FRVC record (4:36) and his own 2-week-old school record relay unit (Cal Klueess, Dave Reinke, Wayne Polzin and all-time Wisconsin best, 4:27).

The dark-haired senior, a once-in-a-generation type of prep miler, gave the several hundred customers an electrifying answer.

2:11 at the Half
Running effortlessly, Loker turned in a 62-second first quarter. He circled the track again, coming to the midpoint at 2:11. Don had left all competitors far behind by this time, but his good sense of pace brought him to the three-quarters pole in 3:22.

The tension mounted as Loker arrived at the final 220 yards in 3:55. Would he have enough left to realize the dream of all prep milers, a sub-4:30?

He did. Loker came on like a behind-schedule streamliner, unleashing a strong kick in the final 150 yards to hit the tape at 4:29.

jump that Lundstrom authored in 1946 was 6 feet, 3 inches. The third and final new record set on a cold night by a fiery group of athletes was in the 150-10 set by Central's Dave Zeinemann.

Central's team victory was record-setting in its own right. The Redmen, coached by Walt Anderson, are the first Sheboygan representatives ever to win the conference track and field crown. Neither an undivided Sheboygan (prior to 1938) nor the separate schools, Central and North, had been able to reach the pinnacle until last night.

With five firsts and a total of 57 points, Central finished eight markers ahead of Fond du Lac—which was also aiming for its first track title. Defending champion Green Bay West came in third.

State Prepares to Purchase Big Marsh

Last Remaining Wetlands Area in Manitowoc County Will Tie in With Killsnake Development

Post-Crescent Staff Bureau

Madison — Preliminary authorization for the acquisition of a huge public hunting ground in western Manitowoc county in the Collins marsh at a probable cost of about $162,000 has been voted by the state conservatory commission.

Collins marsh is the last remaining wetlands area in Manitowoc county available for public use. The district is about 17 miles west of Manitowoc and the project will tie in with the Killsnake river development now being pushed by the department in Manitowoc and Calumet counties. State ownership was proposed to "prevent the loss of lowlands through agricultural practices and to preserve and improve existing pheasant, deer, waterfowl and muskrat habitat," the commission was told.

Specific purchases will be brought before the commission over a period of years, as options become available.

It is hoped that the Collins marsh development will be the nucleus for future extension of wildlife ranges in the district, according to state officials.

The department is making known its plans to town and county officials, in order to avoid tax complications.

Federal Funds
Of the ultimate acquisition costs, about 75 per cent will be contributed from federal funds under the Pittman-Robertson act.

The conservatory commission in its approving action paid special tribute to Warden Herbert VanderBloemen of Manitowoc county for his work in liaison with local fish and game clubs, some of which have become so enthusiastic that they have voted to contribute substantial sums to assist the state in financing the land purchased.

Dumping of Live Bait Is Major Problem

Spread of Rough Fish Can Ruin Good Trout Lake

BY JAY REED

Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

One of the more important questions taken up at the fish and game hearings this week was one dealing with use of minnows or other fish for bait in lakes which have been reclaimed for trout. The state wants to prohibit such use.

The spread of rough fish in game fish waters is a major headache for conservation men and every state has the problem. It is caused both by well meaning fishermen and those who just don't think or care.

Dump Minnows
Undesirable fish types, conservation men say, usually are introduced by anglers after they are through fishing. They dump what remains in their minnow buckets instead of taking the minnows home or destroying them.

Here's what happens, according to fisheries biologists. A few of these unwanted fish manage to keep from becoming trout or bass food for the first season by hiding where the gamefish will not follow. They may even get together the first year and produce a family numbering anywhere from several hundred to thousands. When this happens they have a foothold.

Same Cover
The same cover is being used by small trout and for the first few years a lot of small trout end up in the stomachs of the rough fish. On the other hand, few rough fish end up as trout food.

But then things change. In a trout lake the trout only lay eggs once a year. The undesirable species not only lay more eggs but their chances of survival are better. After a few years the young rough fish are everywhere and have thinned out the aquatic vegetation to the point where there is not enough cover or food for the small trout.

Eliminate Trout
After a few more years the newcomers eliminate the trout hatch altogether.

That's why the question was brought up at this year's hearings. The state is spending thousands of dollars reclaiming many lakes for trout. It has been done in several instances in Waupaca, Calumet and Shawano counties already. It will be repeated many more times in the future.

Trap League to Shoot Sunday at Manawa Range

Manawa — A Tri-County Trap league shoot will be held at the Manawa Fish and Game club grounds Sunday. The range is two miles south of Manawa on Highway 22.

Refreshments will be available on the grounds. Members working on various phases of the shoot include Ervin Schoen, Al Bur-garske, Albert Osterloft, Mrs. Clara Suehs, L. D. Hershberg,

Lake LaBelle Walleye Population Still Good

There are still a lot of walleyes in Lake LaBelle, Waushara county, judging by fish management sampling. Last year a sample of 539 walleyes were tagged by the conservation department in the lake. To date only 86 of the tags have been recovered. The prospect seems good to catch either a tagged or an untaged walleye.

White Bass Biting Rate County Fishing As Only Fair to Good

Outagamie county fishing is rated fair to good by Conservation Warden Chuck Wranosky in the first of the summer's weekly tabulations of Wisconsin angling conditions. The county-by-county report is compiled by wardens across the state and published once each week.

Generally, fishing conditions in most areas are less than excellent but some fish are being taken. White bass, northern and walleyes appear to be the best bets for the weekend anglers.

Outagamie County — Warden Chuck Wranosky: Lake Waubesa fishing fair. Walleyes biting mornings and evenings on the lake and along shores on minnows and artificial. Trout fishing also fair. Smallmouth bass biting fair to good on the river. Catfish biting fair to good in the New London and Stephensville areas.

Fond du Lac County — Warden Charles Schlumpf: Fishing for bluegills and crappies good on Lake and Mattheus bays with wet flies. Nice catches being made. No fishing on south end of Winnebago but bluegills taken from shore in southern and west. No fishing on lake as yet by fishermen. Fishing fair in general. Some walleyes being taken on Wolf lake evenings casting with minnows.

Waushara County — Warden Herb Lemke: Trout fishing good on all streams. Water also running. Bluegills taking fair to good. The largest trout are being taken on the lake. Northern, walleyes, bass fishing fair to good.

Winnebago County — Warden Frank Deringer: Fishing on the Wolf river in the Winnebago area very good. Catfish excellent. Northern pike beginning to bite. White bass very good. The lower Fox from Rutledge to Morris to Lake Winnebago very good for white bass. White bass should be in the Omro, Eureka area by the weekend.

Waupaca County — Warden Rex

There's 58 Pounds of Northern pike being displayed by Emil Bohatschek, 1525 E. Henry street, in the above photo. Bohatschek hooked the big northern

Tell Sportsmen Of Laws Dealing With Bait Sales

Madison — The conservatory department reports that some dealers in fishing bait are unaware of the license requirements for such an activity and therefore has issued this explanation.

According to Section 29.137 of the Wisconsin statutes, no person shall engage in the business of bait dealer without obtaining a license therefrom from the commission—except that resident children under 16 years of age may barter or sell bait to consumers to the extent of $500 annually without a license. The number of minnows in possession is not a factor in determining whether or not a bait dealer's license is required.

If you are a resident of the state and over 16 years old and if you barter or sell crayfish, frogs or minnows for fishing purposes in any amount, you are required to obtain a current bait dealer's license.

Unlawful to Litter Water With Debris

Read this. It might save you money. With the boating season underway, the conservatory department issues a reminder that there is a litter bug law that prohibits depositing, placing or throwing into any water of the state, any cans, bottles, debris, refuse or other solid waste material. Violations carry fines up to $100 and in addition there is a provision for a mandatory revocation of your fishing license.

One-Shot Hunt Back in Style

Unique System Traditional Now In Wyoming Antelope Season

Lander, Wyo.—In the early September with a traditional one-shot antelope hunt. A group of governors, movie and television celebrities, business and military leaders are given one bullet to bag their fleet-footed pronghorn.

To the hunters who fell antelope with their single bullet there are pats on the back, strands of bear claws and other awards at a Shoshone Indian victory banquet. Those who hit nothing but "air eat with the squaws and help prepare the feast for the crack shots.

The 1-shot antelope hunt was conceived around a campfire during a 1939 hunting trip. Harold F. Evans of Lander and Hank Dahl of Denver were commenting on how modern high-powered rifles and lack of enforcement because of the absence of a tagging system the state finds it impossible to hold deer populations within range limits. It seeks authority to open seasons on any deer in areas where needed.

"Under a good deer management the hunter can expect to harvest as many as five one and a half year old deer in good condition in comparison with one deer under poor herd management," the Louisiana commission says.

250-Pound Bear Shot On Wittenberg Farm
Wittenberg — A 250-pound bear has been killed on the Harold Long farm, eight miles northeast of Wittenberg.

Thursday's Games:
IPC vs. Pond (Interlake).
YMCA vs. UCT (Franklin).
COF vs. H. S. Boys (Wilson 2).
App. Club vs. L.H. Markt. (Wilson 1).

The Catholic Order of Foresters team opened defense of its Fraternal Softball league title Thursday night with a 17-13 victory over Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Lang hit a bases — loaded homer for COF, and Fahrner also socked a homer for the winners. IPC specialized in triples, with Sachs getting one with the bases full, and Grady and Taylor also whacking for the same distance.

The best-pitched game of opening night was a 3-hitter by YMCA's Filz in a 5-0 win over Pond.

The Appleton club rallied from a 5-1 deficit to down UCT, 7-5. Dick Emanuel went 4-for-4 for the losers. In the final game, One-Hour Market beat High School Boys, 12-7.

Williams Batting .063 Since He's Rejoined Bosox

Boston — "I'm lousy and I know it but I'm going to get better and help the club."

These were the words of Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams Friday night following the fourth game since he joined his mates.

Ted went 0-for-4 in Friday night's 4-3 loss to Cleveland, the four first-inning teams in the games since his recovery from his spring neck ailment, the defending American league batting champion is batting .063.

Ballad of Cynthia Ann

White Girl Became Wife Of Comanche Indian Chief

heels, vault up again to the saddle, or spring from one galloping steed to another. The horse lifted the Comanche woman from a beast of burden to a mate, mounted and proud and free, whose bride-price had been paid by her suitor in those very animals that made of him a red half-god, a centaur out of myth. That was how Peta Nakona, young chief of the Kwahadi band of Comanches, obtained Cynthia Ann from her red foster parents when she would have been about 15 years old.

Loyal Comanche

In 1851, some Texan travelers fell in with the Kwahadi band along the upper Canadian river. They started at the hair of the young chief's wife; it was straight as an Indian's, but yellow, yellow. Her skin was tanned to leathery brown; in her eyes there was no gleam of recognition. Not even at the name of Cynthia Ann Parker (say the ch hard as in the Scottish loch.) No, she answered in Comanche, she had no desire to return to her white relatives, to leave her two swarthy little sons, and her good husband.

The Kwahadi band had been raiding; the frontier was aflame. They had to be punished. So, in December of 1860, 47 Texas Rangers, under the command of Capt. Sul Ross, took the field in vengeance. Joining them was a handful of settlers and cowboys, and 23 dragoons, fight-loving Irishmen. The Rangers had at last got Colt six-shooters. They were the first to use the Colt on the Comanches, and with it they turned the whole tide of Indian warfare.

Thus, on the morning of Dec. 19, the end was clear in the beginning, when the whites surprised the Kwahadi camp on the desolate banks of the Pecos. The Comanches fled, lurching in their wild-eyed ponies, toppling sideways, or backward, with a last crazy salute of up-thrust hands. Only one figure, crouched low on an iron-gray mount, was pacing the wind. She outran the Rangers, all but outran the bullets, until at their whine around her ears she reined, plunging, and lifted high above her head a swaddled babe, hostage to surrender, pledge of her womanhood.

The Flower Withers

So they took her, took her first to Camp Cooper, where the officers' wives were kindly pitying, and cooed over Tautahah, the tiny red baby. They improved on the Indian syllables into Tapsannah, and declared it meant "Prairie Flower." To poor Cynthia Ann Parker they showed every Christian charity — and met the glare of a caged female whose mate and cubs were still out in the wild. Twice she stole a horse and with her babe in her arms streaked as only a Comanche could for the open. But the cavalry did its job; she was always brought back. Everybody concerned was glad when Sen. (and Colonel) Isaac Parker came and took his niece and her child to her younger brother's house in Athens, Texas.

The state legislature was so good as to vote a pension to Cynthia Ann. But it university, and now president of the American assembly, will return to the campus which he served from 1925 to 1937 to deliver a speech of dedication for the music-drama center, at 8:30 p.m. June 6. It is titled "The Liberal Arts at Mid-Century."

Ben W. Heineman, whose 4-year-old career as chairman of the Chicago and North Western railway system has elicited the attention of national news magazines, will be the commencement speaker at 3 p.m., June 7.

Join Knight
They will join Dr. Douglas M. Knight, Lawrence's eleventh president, who will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at 10:45 a.m., June 7, as principal speakers for the weekend.

President Knight commented: "The privilege of having Mr. Wriston here as our guest at the formal dedication of the music-drama center is a uniquely appropriate one. I think, not only because he has had an informed and witty interest in the arts since his undergraduate days, but because during his years at Lawrence he and Mrs. Wriston worked constantly for their strengthening and improvement here." Dr. Wriston's skill as a public speaker was recently commemorated in a phonograph recording put out by Brown university, titled "Wriston Speaking." The former Lawrence president holds 26 honorary degrees, which includes most of the Ivy league institutions. He holds four degrees from Wesleyan, three earned and one honorary, and it was from the faculty of Wesleyan that Lawrence chose him to be president.

He has held offices in a host of educational organizations and foundations, and has done considerable work for governmental agencies. He has been particularly active in the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Attempt to Tax Water Intake Starts Fight

Suggest Green Bay Annex Property to Avoid Taxation by Kewaunee County

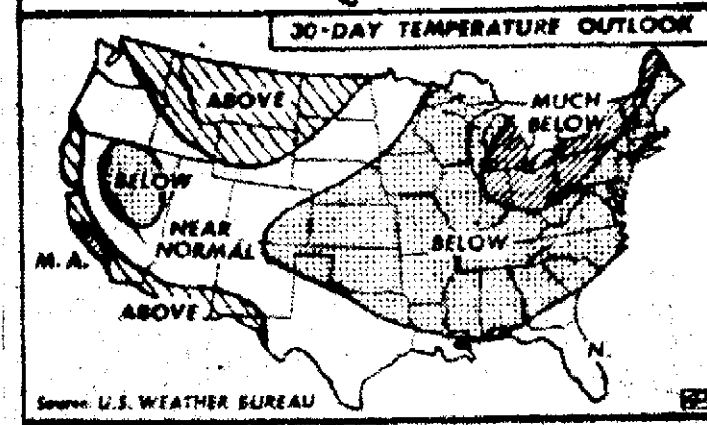

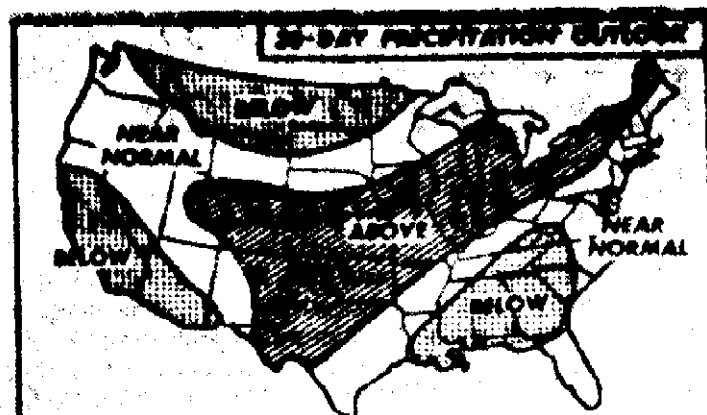

Madison — An attempt to make the Green Bay water intake plant on the shore of Lake Michigan in Kewaunee county subject to local property taxes has brought a suggestion that the city might be tempted under such a rule to annex the land on which its property is located.

The possibility was raised by Ed Johnson, manager of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, who protested the measure before a state senate committee.

Johnson said the law now permits cities to annex their properties that are "near." "What would the courts say about a parcel that is owned by the city and is 23 miles distant?" he asked.

No city of Green Bay withness appeared on the measure by Sen. A. A. Laun of Kiel, introduced at the request of the town of Pierce, Kewaunee county, in which the city's water intake plant is located.

Earlier city officials had said they felt sure they can

South Wind Tempers Cold Blast

Warm southerly winds edged north to cut off the expected Canadian blast forecast for Friday night and the Fox Cities and most of the nation east of the Rockies were spared a return to wintry weather.

The low in the Fox Cities, expected to plunge into the freezing realms, was a not too unpleasant 40 overnight. By 10 a.m. today the mercury, pampered by a 5 mile an hour zephyr from the south, had edged to the 57 degree mark. Friday's high was 60.

Anchorage, Alaska, pointed the way when it reported a 49, contrasted with a 45 at Detroit and a 44 at Chicago as the Great Lakes area suffered the most from Canadian air that squeaked past the southerly flow. Grand Marais in the upper Peninsula was the refrigerator of the nation with a report of 28 overnight.

The nearly fair skies this morning are expected to continue until Sunday, when clouds will start piling up to herald possible showers Sunday night and Monday, according to the forecasters. The mercury, despite the threat of rain, is expected to keep in a civil neighborhood, with the high Sunday expected to be in the 60s and the low tonight in the 40s.

Compulsory Retirement Under Study

Finance Committee Asked for Opinion Last December

Compulsory retirement of city employees at age 65 remains in the city council's finance committee for study. The committee was asked by a committee of the whole meeting of the council in December to study possibilities.

Thursday night the subject was introduced but failed to evoke much discussion. Other committee actions: Trip Expenses
City Clerk Broehm reported he has obtained some copies of trip sheets which other governments use to keep track of mileage expenses of employees.

Chairman Ald. Ervin J. Boggan said the committee intends to have each employee receiving a monthly car allowance fill out a trip sheet at the start and end of each day.

The check is the result of several years of discussion by finance committees over claims that some employees are over-compensated for use of their automobiles during working hours.

The city band was recommended to play in the annual Flag day parade June 13 and at Memorial day services Saturday, May 30.

Flag Day Float
Deputy City Health Officer Claude N. Greisch was instructed to construct a float for the city's entry in the Flag day parade. There is $400 available in the budget.

Salaries were recommended for Lester Schultz, building inspector assistant for the summer; Larry Johnson, who is being rehired as a city engineer; two extra men for the engineering department in the summer; four weed cutters, and William Greenan, Jr., new street sign painter.

The Post-Crescent was recommended to furnish the city legal advertising and copies of council minutes for the next year.

New Meters
Transfer of $16,218.46 from the parking meter revenues reserve to the active account was recommended. The money will pay for 352 meters just purchased.

A bill from the board of education for use of the high school auditorium for recreation department's annual dance review and rehearsal amounting to $450, was authorized for payment. The review made a profit of $347, a statement from Director Elmer W. Graver stated.

Bills for doctors' services to city relief clients showed they had been reduced from $264 to $224.50 by a new agreement

Your Problems

'Adolescent' Couple Kept Apart by Teenage Children

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: The woman I married was a widow with two children, 22, 20, 18 and 6. The children don't know we're married. We are living apart.

When I courted her the children seemed to like me. As soon as we were serious they told their mother I was "a nut."

My wife loves the children and has always worked hard to support them. The 18-year-old girl is the only one who has a job. The boys (22 and 20) loaf all day and ask their mother for spending money. They treat her like a servant. "Wake me up at 10 a.m. and have ham and eggs ready." She admits she's spoiled them and they have no respect for her.

When I call on the phone they hang up on me. I'm getting sick of living apart. I child is their responsibility, married was a widow with want to be with her as a husband, and I'd be a fool to band should. She says "When take over."

What do you suggest? — If my daughter were ill or if something happened to her husband and she had to go to work I wouldn't hesitate, but under these conditions what do you think? — Mrs. J. E. Dear J.E.: I agree with your husband. You reared your family — now let your daughter do the same.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I started to go with this boy last year. He was rather wild and had been in trouble for ditching school and hub-cap "disappearances." When they found a pint of whisky in his locker he was suspended from school.

The whole world was against him so I offered my friendship when he needed it. He promised never to get in trouble again, and he's kept his word.

The problem is that I don't want to go steady any more as I'm missing out on too much fun. When I tried to break off he said he'd go bad again if I dropped him and then it'd be my fault. What can I do? — Jill

Dear Jill: He's found your Achilles heel (the heel). Tell him goodbye and good luck. You're a young girl — not a reform school. Don't let him play on your sympathy and use you as a crutch forever. Do what's best for you.

DEAR ANN: Six years ago our daughter graduated from high school. She was a good student and won a college scholarship. After the first quarter she came home and announced she was tired of school and wanted to get married. We were heartbroken and begged her to get her education first. She was dead to our pleading, and married a few months later.

Now their little boy is 4. She wants to return to college. Last week she asked if I'd take care of her child. This means I'd have to give up church work and club activities, and all the other pleasures that come at my time of life.

My husband says I should refuse. He feels I've earned the privilege of doing the

2nd District Backs Davis For Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The boom for Glenn R. Davis of Waukesha as a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket next year took on strength Thursday night when a district Republican convention invited the former second district congressman to run.

Davis made no immediate comment at the rally of Republican workers of five counties, but it was evident that the idea was discussed before the session.

The former Republican candidate for U. S. senator is said to have told his backers that he will compete for the nomination if there is convincing showing of support. The 45-year-old lawyer served 10 years in the house of representatives before he accepted a convention draft in 1956 to run against Sen. Alexander Wiley for the GOP nomination.

The check is the result of several years of discussion by finance committees over claims that some employees are over-compensated for use of their automobiles during working hours.

In Good Taste No Wrong In Visit to Sick Man

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a married woman working for a large organization. Recently one of the men who works in my department (a bachelor) was taken ill and rushed to the hospital for an operation. One evening after work I stopped at the hospital to see him. When I arrived home and told my husband where I had been, he was quite perturbed over it and said that it was very improper for me to go alone to visit this man. I can't see any impropriety in this situation and think he is making a fuss over nothing. I would very much like to have your opinion on this.

Answer: Unless you have given your husband some other reason to be jealous, I do not see any reason for his objecting to your visiting a sick man in a hospital.

The newlyweds will be honored at a 12:30 p.m. dinner and a 2 to 4 p.m. reception at Butte des Morts Golf club.

Miss Diane Rohlf, Kaukauna, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mrs. Edward Flynn, Sheboygan, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid, and Miss Margaret Kuehn, Kaukauna, cousin of the bride, was the junior attendant. Miss Karlett Kuehn, Kaukauna, cousin of the bride, will be in charge of the guest book.

Richard Niesen, Chicago, attended as best man and groomsmen was William Rohlf, Kaukauna, brother of the bride. Serving as ushers were Ralph Bayorgeon, Kaukauna, brother of the bridegroom, and Tony Akgulian, Racine, fiancé of the maid of honor. Soloist was David Der- us, Kaukauna.

After a 2-week honeymoon in Las Vegas, Nev., the newlyweds will reside at 4110 Meadow Brook lane, St. Louis Park, Minn.

The bride graduated from Kaukauna High school and attended the University of Wisconsin at Badger Northland, Inc., Kaukauna.

The bridegroom graduated from Kaukauna High school and the General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich. He is a service representative for Chevrolet, division of General Motors, Inc., Minneapolis.

Our Children Parents Often Angry Over Student Failure

BY ANGELO PATRI

Promotion time is always a time of trouble for the teachers and the principal because, if promotions are made on the basis of ability (the only way they should be made) some pupils and their parents are unhappy.

Being left back, or being conditioned, is discouraging of course, but there is also the humiliation of failure added to the situation. Angry parents are likely to appear in the office next morning.

Anger will not help things at all. All term through notices, reports, parents' meetings, maybe personal calls by the teacher, informed parents about their children's progress or lack of it. Then the left back sentence did not come as a surprise.

Parents' Pride

Parents who insist upon such promotions, trials, conditions, are not thinking of the condition of the child's mental growth but of their pride. Usually the left-back pupil has for some time been accepting his situation philosophically. But the school people cannot be as philosophical. They are carrying responsibility for the growth and advancement of this pupil and they will not be content to let the left back one remain so.

In schools that are well administered, such pupils get extra attention. Either they are placed in groups of like situation and given special instruction, or they are tutored by teachers assigned to that work in an effort to bring them up to grade requirements if possible. When it is found to be impossible, at the time, they are likely to be given an adjusted program, watched over and when they show signs of awakening ability, assigned to regular grades.

What should be stressed in this problem is the parents' share in the work of the school. If, when they get word that a child is slipping, they will make an appointment with the teacher, learn what the child's lessons, cooperate with the teacher, there will be no term - end shock, no angry charges against the teacher and the school on promotion day.

Promotion day is but the result of all the other school days. Those days are the ones parents should watch and use helpfully.

The Foyer in James Madison School is used for school parties as well as a lobby for theater and gymnasium events. The floor is constructed of ceramic tile. Peruvian Daffodil Starts to Grow Right After Potting

By Katherine B. Walker

Peruvian daffodil (formerly Hymenocallis calathina, the lobes, are unusual in appearance. Under no conditions cut off any roots at any time. Fill in around the bulb with rich, loose soil, keep the plant in a warm, bright place, and water rather heavily.

I have had large bulbs come into flower within two weeks, in good condition for some three or four. Although Peruvian daffodil is a close relative of the well-known Amaryllis, it should not be crowded in its pot as we do with the latter plant. Large sized bulbs should be potted in bulb pans or azalea pots, with the bulb planted as deeply as possible. If the pot depth does not permit the roots to spread out beneath the bulb, coil them gently around it.

With bulbs of this type, it is important that they be kept growing vigorously until their normal dormant period. Indoors, supplemental feeding is usually a necessity in order to have the bulb mature properly, and enable it to store up enough food for future bloom.

Pot Hymenocallis any time from now until June, and keep it growing until mid-fall when the leaves will begin to get yellow. Then dry the bulb off gradually, pull the withered leaves off when they are loose enough, and store the bulb in a moderately cool, dark place.

Questions and Answers

What is the proper name for Carolina Jessamine? Have you ever grown it?

Properly, this is Gelsemium sempervirens. Its fragrant yellow flowers in early spring make this evergreen vine a lovely addition to the window garden, and I have two plants of it this year.

Is coffee an easy plant to grow?

It is a choice foliage plant that requires very little care and can endure poor light.

Family Diary

It would be an exaggeration to say that Lindsay Power, the internationally famous foreign correspondent and news commentator, is an idol of mine. But I do admire him. With his prematurely snow-white hair and piercing dark eyes he is terribly good looking — but more important, he is a brilliant man. I never miss "The Power Hour" Sunday night on television if I can help it.

So when I read in the paper that Lindsay Power was to be the dedication speaker at our big new auditorium, I knew I simply had to go.

John is not nearly so keen about him as I am. In fact, he had expressed absolutely no interest in hearing him speak at all — then this absolutely wonderful thing happened. The Osgood K. Thuringer, whom we hardly know at all, invited us to attend the cocktail party they were giving in honor of Lindsay Power himself.

No Enthusiasm

I could hardly wait until John got home that night to tell him. He received the news however, in far from enthusiastic fashion.

"The Thuringers!" he said, then added in his pathetic "I hate cocktail parties" tone of voice, "Do we have to go?"

"Have to go!" I squeaked. "Do you think I'd miss an opportunity to meet Lindsay Power personally? Why, I'd go if I had to crawl!"

"That's what I was afraid of," John said and went off to change into his gardening clothes.

though I did my best to hide it, I didn't fool John.

"If you don't take care of that throat," John said when he left for the office, "you won't be able to go to the party." I thought he sounded hopeful.

"Oh, I'll be able to go," I croaked cheerfully. And I was.

Mob Scene

There must have been at least a hundred people there when we arrived, and Lindsay Power was absolutely surrounded.

"I'm not going to fight that mob," John whispered resolutely. "You go ahead and meet the fair-haired boy, but after I pay my respects to our hostess I'm going to slip outside and take a look at the garden."

After agreeing to meet John by the front door in an hour I wedged myself into the outer rim of people crowding around Lindsay Power and at the end of thirty minutes had worked my way into the inner circle. The two ladies ahead of me were at last bidding him a reluctant goodbye and I was all ready to shake hands and speak a few complimentary remarks. I'd been working on all day when Mr. Power muttered, "Excuse me, back in a minute." He gave me what I thought was a rather soulful glance, then worked his way through the crowd and disappeared.

Disappearance

In spite of the babble and a nagging headache I resolved to hold my place. But when six-thirty came and he had not returned there was nothing to do but meet John as planned.

On my way out I thanked Mrs. Thuringer for asking us, then made my way toward the door. John didn't speak until we were outside. "Well, you were right, as usual," he said. "I'm glad we came. That Lindsay Power is all right."

"How do you know?" I demanded.

"Had a nice visit with him out in the garden. He came outside to get some air. He's like I am — can't stand crowds — and we had quite a talk about the new roses. How did you like him?"

Upset

"Like him? I didn't even meet him," I said huffily. "The moment I got near the man he went outside to get a breath of air — and got so interested talking to you that he never came back."

"Golly, honey, I didn't know," John said.

I told John to forget it, that I'd lost all interest in the man. And that's the truth. But you don't need three guesses to figure out who was glued to the television set last Friday night listening to the "Power Hour."

We Are Proud to Have Made the Complete Electrical Installation in the New James Madison Junior High School

James Madison School Library

Current recommended levels of illumination are based on the amount of light the eye requires for people seeing in given tasks. Much research and testing has been conducted to bring out as closely as possible the actual conditions that students work under and the resulting new lighting levels will bring improved vision and seeing comfort.

15 Years of Hope, 2 of Construction In Madison School

Work on Playground Will Get Underway This Spring

BY JACK HOLZHUETER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Nearly 15 years of hope, three years of planning and two years of construction have gone into James Madison Junior High school — Appleton's newest school building which will be open for public inspection Sunday.

Supt. of Schools John P. Mann says the idea for the building was conceived 15 or 20 years ago. "We knew the south side would need a junior high school some day," he said.

Architect for the school, Raymond N. LeVe and Associates, was engaged March 28, 1936. Actual construction began late in May, 1957, and the school was nearly ready for occupancy by Sept. 1958.

17 Classrooms

Original plans for the building called for 17 classrooms, two home economics rooms, three industrial arts shops, band room, choir room, crafts room, art room, gymnasium, auditorium and a swimming pool. The approved contract did not include the pool.

The school is constructed on a 13.5-acre plot in what was once the Red Star school district, town of Harrison, Calumet county. The remaining land will be given over to play areas, parking lots, tennis courts, softball diamonds and a football field.

Playground Started

Construction of the play areas will get underway this spring. On the Carpenter street side of the school, where bicycles presently are parked, a parking lot will be built.

In the rear of the building, a black-topped play area in terraces, will be constructed. Along Calumet street four or five tennis courts will be laid. In back of them, two softball diamonds will be placed, and at the far eastern end of the plot a regulation football field will be built.

The entire play area will be separated from adjoining property by a 10-foot fence, constructed in a broad V-shape, corresponding to property lines.

834 Students

Board of education figures in the open house brochure say the building will hold an average of 834 students. About 250 junior high school and 150 grade school students use the building today.

The building is L-shaped. The Carpenter street side contains the 2-story classroom wing entrance, and the side wall of the auditorium into which is set a large exterior clock.

Aqua yellow and red porcelain panels were used to face the exterior of the classroom wing. Architects say that maintenance cost is reduced by using the panels, "and it offers an infinite number of possibilities for color." All of the windows and porcelain panels are set in aluminum frames.

Circulation in Mind

The building was designed with ease of pupil circulation in mind, architects said. Classrooms are separated from noise areas. Band and choir rooms are adjacent to the auditorium and the gymnasium. Student parties also are held in the foyer and common areas.

The foyer contains a Fond du Lac stone planter utilizing a continuous line of stone in and out of the building. It helps control acoustics and brings the outdoors inside, architects say. The planter is being maintained by biology classes.

Multi-colored ceramic tiles are used on the foyer floor. Bright glazed tile was used on foyer, corridor and locker room walls. It is easily maintained and requires no painting.

Work Quarters

The shop and music wing of the building fronts on Calumet street. The basement of the shop wing houses work quarters for city school maintenance crews. The shops have no ceilings, but have exposed girders.

All walls, except corridor walls, are cement block. The exterior of the building is faced with buff-colored brick. Floors, except foyer floors, are asphalt tile. Auditorium floors have metal chips impregnated to reduce slipping.

Architects note the use of color in the building "gives it a feeling of elegance." Colors were picked not for beauty alone, they said, "but equally as much for their qualities of emotional response."

Colors Used

Walls which students face during class are painted soft uncontrasting colors. Backs of rooms and opposite walls are painted more decorative colors.

Green predominates, because it is a non-stimulating color, according to scientific tests. Yellow reflects light.

Colors on the exterior attempt to pull the whole thing together, it is claimed. They tie in the rest of the building and the area without standing alone.

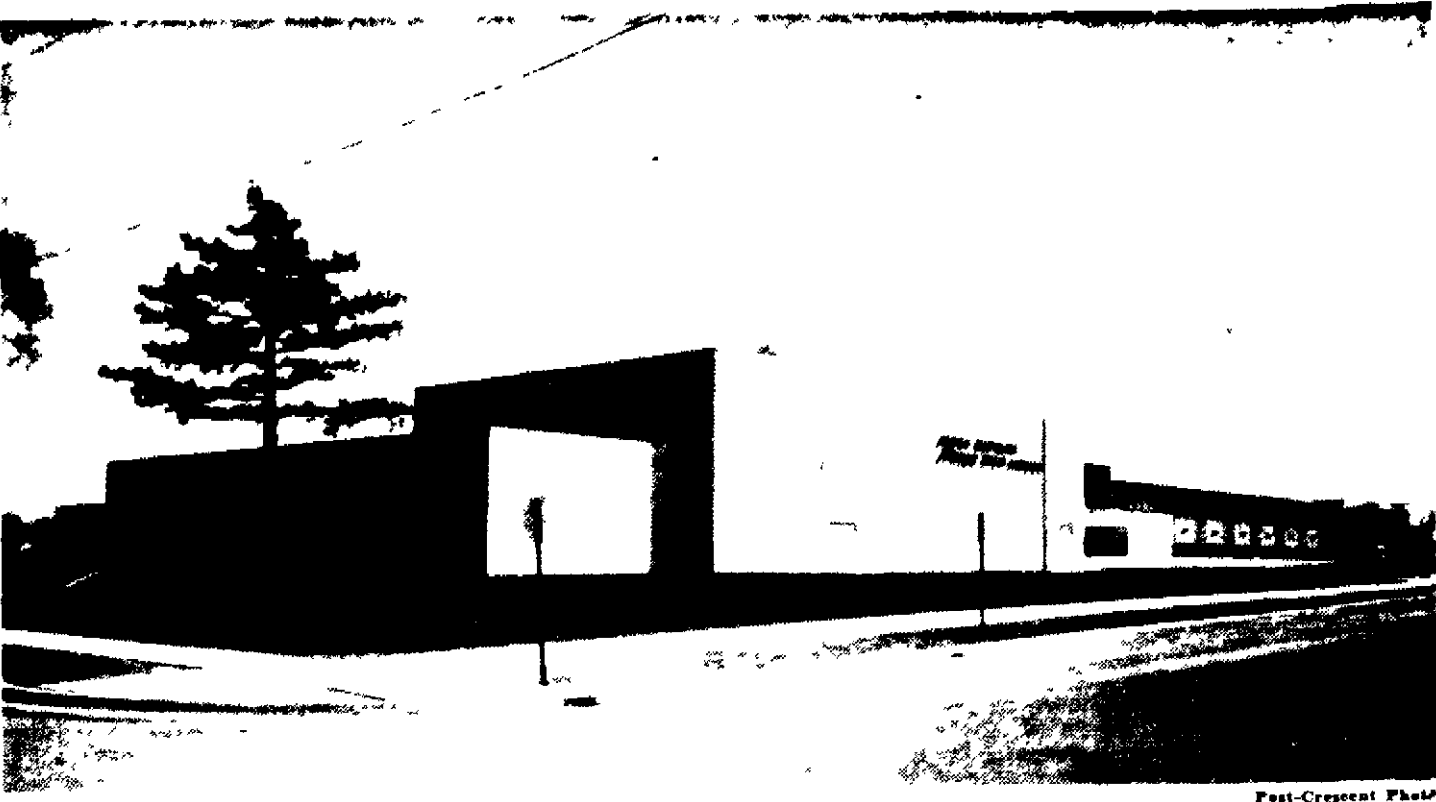

Floors Planned

Even the floor colors and lack of pattern were planned with an eye to restfulness and concentration. The only patterned floor in the building is in the cafeteria.

Hallways are lined with lockers. Long areas of bulletin board are above the lockers. On the second floor of the classroom wing across from the library, the wall is surfaced with pegboard, which will serve as a giant display case.

Above the bulletin boards, windows and jalousies allow circulation of air from classroom to classroom. Almost every classroom is separated from the next by small conference rooms in which committee meetings and special discussions can be held.

The building contains 101,126 square feet. List contractors 14 p. 5k.

This is James Madison Junior High school — Appleton's newest public school building. Open house for the 17-room school will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The $1,200,000 building has a capacity of about 830 students and is constructed of buff brick and aqua, yellow and red porcelain blocks.

Open House Planned

Appleton's newest school — James Madison Junior High school at Carpenter and Calumet streets — will be shown to Appleton residents from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

The open house will permit visitors to wander about the building at random, inspecting facilities at their leisure.

Teachers will be in their rooms to answer questions about the building and the uses to which their rooms are put.

Charts and posters will describe construction details and reasons for using materials and colors. Size and purpose of rooms will be listed.

Refreshments will be served. No formal dedication plans or program have been scheduled.

There will be no guides, but counting stations will be maintained at all doors.

Walter Fox, principal at James Madison Junior High school, has been a teacher and administrator in Appleton public schools since 1921.

Faced with the dual problem of over-crowded and inadequate facilities to provide proper training at the junior high school level and the need for additional primary & intermediate classrooms to serve the growing population on Appleton's Southside, your School Board set the machinery in motion in 1952 to resolve these problems.

Projected population figures coupled with such factors as the new College Avenue bridge and anticipated area annexations brought about the decision to construct a new southside junior high school and to rejuvenate the existing McKinley Facilities for primary and intermediate needs.

Situated on a 13.5 acre parcel of land, the school has an enclosed area of 101,126 square feet to ultimately accommodate 834 students. There are 28 teacher stations plus auditorium and cafeteria facilities.

Your School Board is desirous that the public view this school to see how the effective use of durable yet economical building materials has provided excellent educational facilities at a cost of only $11.78 per square foot (exclusive of architects fees), the lowest per square foot costs as shown in the Public Expenditure Survey, dated February 1959, of last year's state Junior High School construction.

Light, Cheerful Structure
Has Facilities to Handle
Many Phases of Education

BY GUY SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Sturdy, big and beautiful is how a board of education brochure describes the new James Madison Junior High school which will be open to the public Sunday.

But, the brochure points out, it is inexpensively designed and constructed.

The classrooms are bright, cheery and done in a variety of light pastel colors painted on cement blocks.

Lots of Skylights
Light colors were used, according to William R. Knuth, to aid the natural and fluorescent lighting system. Scattered throughout the building — Blackboards are green, in the gymnasium, in the corridors and in some of the stairwells — are skylights.

Thirteen 26 by 30-foot classrooms are ventilated by sight-level windows. Sections of the glass panels are lowered to provide ventilation and aid lighting of classrooms by utilizing the skylights in the corridors.

Knuth pointed out that the chair-desks in classrooms are not fastened. This, he said, enables teachers to get more students in a classroom with-

Cut Maintenance Costs
The corridors, two of them running the length of the building, are covered with glazed tile to protect the blackboards and cut down maintenance costs.

Blackboards are green, in the gymnasium, in the corridors and in some of the stairwells — are skylights.

Thirteen 26 by 30-foot classrooms are designed to handle a maximum load. Some schools designed in the 1920's were built with individual shower stalls which are hard to keep clean and need much more maintenance, Knuth noted.

Home Ec Kitchen

A spacious and roomy sewing machine next to a home economics kitchen are built with room for expansion in mind.

The kitchen is 49 by 30 feet and the sewing room is 40 by 30 feet.

Also on the first floor are a lobby to handle a crowd going to the partitioned gymnasium or the auditorium. The foyer combines the customary vestibule with the lobby. Both are set off by an attractive planter.

The school has a special chorus and band room featuring miniature amphitheaters constructed of wood materials.

Colored Lockers

Colored wall lockers with combination dial locks line corridor walls.

A 35 by 44-foot printing shop has 12 tables with cases for junior printers. An adjacent darkroom, with ample photographic fluids and materials, will serve camera club activities.

Another workshop has tables with vises. Lighting throughout most of the building is fluorescent. In many places, especially in classrooms bordering main corridors fluorescent lighting often is almost unnecessary because of the brightness of the skylights.

A 26 by 44 art room will permit students to dabble in oils and other art forms.

Individual Conferences
One of the most unusual and handy features are individual conference rooms.

The rooms have plate glass picture windows in miniature and are situated between classrooms. Students can go to either classroom through the small rooms, many of which have tables for student conferences. Conversation can be carried on while a class is in session nearby, thus leaving the teacher undisturbed.

12 Teachers
Work at New Junior High

6 Others Handle
Elementary Classes
At James Madison

A nucleus of 12 teachers has handled the 250 junior high school students at the new James Madison Junior High school during its first year. The school is designed to handle a maximum of 834 students, school officials say.

Sherwood Russell, who handles mathematics and industrial arts, like Principal Walter T. Fox was at McKinley school before moving to the new building. Russell joined the McKinley staff during World War II, did a service stint, then returned to the school.

Two teachers—Donald Pawer and Clifford Washburn—have been working with Fox since 1932. Pawer is a mathematics teacher. Washburn handles physical education and social studies.

Teachers in their first year at the school are Gordon Braun, English and social studies; Harold Ries, English and Latin; Delmar Schuh, English, sociology and mathematics; Mrs. Virginia Allen, home economics and art; Joan Collins, girls' physical education; Rudolph Richter, science and art; Mrs. Diane Herb, sociology and library; Mrs. Sylvia Emery, Spanish; and Lester Schulz, vocal music.

Norman Johnson is beginning his second year as a guidance director in the public school system.

The elementary school staff of six teachers is headed by an intermediate III teacher, Charles Lynch. The elementary school will be operated at Madison school only temporarily.

Other teachers on the staff are Mrs. Helen Dillon, intermediate III; Richard Goree, intermediate III; Karen Amundson, intermediate III; Mary Ann Kalista, intermediate II and Thomas O'Hearn, intermediate III.

A Floating Ceiling and a Brightly painted rear wall distinguish the auditorium in James Madison Junior High school. The panels of white on the rear wall are acoustical tile set in strips of wood. The remainder of the wall is painted various colors. The seats are upholstered and the floor is paved with non-skid asphalt tile. Oak panelling faces the lower part of the concrete block walls.

Confectioner Scares Would-be Robbers

Cleveland — Jack Rhodes, 43-year-old co-owner of a confectionary, is a kind of unofficial police force. He recently collared his third armed would-be robber. The man told Rhodes' wife, he had a gun. She called her husband, who chased and captured the man, who was caught at his store.

Fox Cities Companies Built Madison School

Five contractors handled the bulk of the work for the new James Madison Junior High school. The Precour Construction company, Oshkosh, with an $846,096 contract, was general contractor. Raymond N. LeVee and Associates, Appleton, was architect. The firm was paid $82,350.

Plumbing was done by the R. Wenzel company, Appleton, with an $80,493 contract, while Azco, Inc., also of Appleton, handled heating under a $126,700 contract. Superior Electric company had a $144,470 contract for electrical work.

Other Firms
Working under the general contractor were these firms: Building Services, Inc., Appleton; Glendale Tiles, Milwaukee; Gressler Brothers, Menasha; Geo. H. Hoffer Glass and Paint company, Appleton; Ted Kuck company, Appleton; Milwaukee Equipment, Milwaukee; Northeastern Boiler company, Green Bay; Schultz Concrete Products, Appleton; James A. Squire and Son, Appleton; Wilke Metal Products, Schoolfield; and Wisconsin School Services, Milwaukee.

Suppliers who worked through the school board included the Heid Music company, Appleton, music equipment and portable risers; American Type Founders, Milwaukee, print shop equipment; Voell Machinery company, Milwaukee, industrial arts equipment; Ideal Photo, Appleton, visual education equipment; Twin City Scenic Azco, Inc., also of Appleton, stage curtains and drapes; Appleton Youngstown Kitchens, demonstration kitchen and six student kitchens; Singer Sewing Machine company, sewing machines; Langstadt's, Inc., Appleton, sewing tables; H. F. Kesson, Appleton, cafeteria range, refrigerator and dishwasher; Universal School Supplies, Appleton, cafeteria tables, auditorium seats, classroom chair desks, library furniture, teachers desks; Meyer Seeger Music company, Appleton, pianos; Eau Claire Book and Stationery company, fold-away bleachers; V. A. Stumpf and company, Middleton, science equipment and preparation tables.

Heineman Attacks 'Full Crew' Bill

Short-Sighted Response to Short Term Political Pressure, He Says

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the Chicago and North Western railroad, today fired a salvo at the state legislature for passage of the so-called "full crew" railroad bill. The former Wausau man characterized the legislation as a "short-sighted response to short term political pressure." He said the bill would hamper Wisconsin's industrial development by placing an unnecessary burden on a major transportation facility.

Service Marginal

"Wisconsin has tremendous industrial potential with the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway," Heineman said. "In the past, it has lagged behind other states in developing that potential. Now, when the seaway offers exceptional opportunities, is no time to handicap a transportation system ready and willing to help the state realize its potential."

He pointed out that passenger service on all Wisconsin railroads is a marginal operation. None of them make any money on the service, but by keeping losses at a minimum they can continue to furnish desired service. However, if increased operating costs lead to additional losses, the roads have no alternative but to further curtail such services, he contended.

Heineman also criticized the railroad unions for similar short-sightedness. Instead of adding more jobs, he warned, the bill might possibly cost even more men their jobs. Instead of adding one man to existing train crews, suspension of trains would actually result in four men being put out of work, he said. He explained that adding an extra crewman wasn't merely an increase of one man but several, since each of several crews would have to be augmented. The run between Green Bay and Chicago, he pointed out, utilizes two full crews, while that between Chicago and Minneapolis uses three, with one of the extra men getting 2-days pay.

Goes to Nelson The "full crew" bill, having passed both houses of the legislature by wide margins, now goes to Gov. Gaylord Nelson for approval or veto. Govs. Kohler and Thomson have both vetoed similar legislation in recent years.

Discussing the possibility of the North Western shifting its station location at Green Bay, Heineman said there seemed little possibility of such a move in the foreseeable future. He acknowledged the idea has been discussed in a general way but that no firm plans are in the making.

Heineman is here to address the state convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce tonight.

Dry Cleaners To Warn of Bag Danger

Appleton dry cleaners who cover garments with plastic bags have been encouraged by the National Institute of Dry Cleaners to warn their customers about the danger of children suffocating after wrapping themselves in the bags.

The American Medical association requested the nationwide organization begin an advertising, warning campaign. It said four children in Phoenix, Ariz., have died after becoming enmeshed in the bags. Press agencies say that 23 children in the country have died.

Not all Appleton firms use the bags. Some say, "We live in the paper valley, so we use paper bags." Others ask customers whether they prefer paper or plastic bags.

One cleaner said all plastic bags, including vegetable sacks, should be labeled "Caution. Keep away from children." He said he would ask his supplier for labeled bags.

A Milwaukee dry cleaning association already has requested that a Milwaukee supplier label the bags with a warning.

An Appleton firm which switched to plastic two months ago said that it will conduct a poll and use whatever garment bag its customers want. The manager thought labeling "would be a good idea."

Seven Drivers Face Justice

Chilton — Seven persons appeared before Wilbur R. Winch, justice of the peace, this week, on charges of traffic law violations.

Charles E. Quam, route 5, Sturgeon Bay, pleaded innocent of drunk driving. He was bound over for trial on May 29 after he provided bond of $150.

Ralph R. Brehmer, 31, Oshkosh, paid $15 for operating a motor vehicle after his license had expired. Richard E. Keene, route 5, Green Bay, was fined $15 for operating a non-registered vehicle.

Joseph Wittnik, 43, Hilbert, was assessed $20 for failure to stop at an arterial in Hilbert.

Speeders who were fined $10 were Robert Goggins, 22, route 3, Chilton; Eugene N. Thorbahn, 40, Gladstone, Mich.; and Donald H. Raschke, 23, route 1, Hilbert.

DePere Grocer for 25 Years Dies at 52

Joseph A. Coenen, 52, DePere, died Friday afternoon in Green Bay after a heart attack. He was born Sept. 18, 1906, in DePere. He operated a grocery store in DePere for 25 years until he became a Burke Candy company salesman last year.

Funeral services will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Mary Catholic church, DePere, with burial at Mt. Olivet cemetery, DePere. Friends may call at the Coffey Funeral home, DePere, after 7 p.m. today. The rosary will be said there at 8 p.m. today.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Seitz, DePere; one brother, Henry, DePere; five sisters, Mrs. Peter Kempen and Mrs. Albert Vander Wetering, both of Kaukauna, Mrs. William Janssen, DePere; Mrs. Josephine Goomoy, Dewey, Ill., and Mrs. Vincent Pilgrim, Suamico; and three grandchildren.

Kaukauna Man Arrested After Series of Crashes

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — David DeGrave, 57, of 217 E. Seventeenth street, Kaukauna, was arrested early today after his car hit two parked vehicles while headed the wrong way on a 1-way street.

Police reported that the DeGrave's car hit a pick-up truck owned by Charles Swanson, Marinette, knocking it 27 feet from its parking place, went on 27 feet more to hit a parked car owned by Cecil Kloos, Green Bay, and continued 112 feet more before stopping.

DeGrave was not hurt.

The crashes took place on a downtown Green Bay street at 1:05 a.m. today.

Olson Trucking Win Safety Prize

National safety honors have been given to the Olson Transportation company by the American Trucking association, in Oklahoma City. The Green Bay company was third place winner in the national general commodities division local 1 to 2 million miles contest.

Olson safety director A. E. Baumann accepted the award from ATA safety engineer Neill Darmstadter.

Consideration for the award included a study of motor carrier operations throughout the nation and is concerned with accidents and accident prevention programs. A complete audit of driving records must be submitted.

The Olson company also received first place honors for its color design in the first fleet owner magazine study. Its Fond du Lac fleet was named a first place winner in the national fleet safety council.

State Model Plane Contest Set June 7

Model airplane flyers from every part of the state will compete in the Wisconsin model airplane contest June 7 at the West Allis baseball practice field in Milwaukee. The youth champion will be flown to the national contest July 27 at the Los Alamitos Naval Air station, California. All winners must be under 21.

Contestants may compete in six events: speed, stunt, combat, rat racing, scale and control line endurance.

Pershing Locomotive to Be Dedicated May 30

Green Bay — A Gen. Pershing locomotive, an army veteran of both world wars and the Korean campaign, will be installed at the new National Railroad Museum Memorial day as part of ceremonies that will include ground breaking for the museum's first building.

The old engine was donated by the Republic of Korea and shipped to the United States last year.

Those scheduled to attend include Daniel Loomis, president of the American Association of Railroads, officials of several lines, Army officials and Korean Ambassador You Chan-yang.

Smoke, but No Fire

Smoke from a handful of burning straw got into the basement of the H. C. Prange company store about 4:15 p.m. Friday, resulting in a call to city firemen. There was no damage. Fire Chief Neumann said. Workmen for the new store project accidentally dropped sparks into the small pile of straw, the chief said.

Scooter Rider Hurt

Bruce Douglas, 2727 E. Wisconsin road, Friday told police he received minor injuries about 8:30 p.m. when his motor scooter was forced from the road in the 1600 block of S. Memorial drive.

Douglas said he received minor injuries to both hands, his left side and his right knee.

Bible School Planned

Royalton — The Congregational church will conduct a vacation Bible school from June 1 to June 12. A Children's day program will be conducted at church, June 14.

End Minnesota Trip

Charlesburg — Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meyer have returned from a trip to Albert, Lea, Minn.

Around Home

Retired firemen, like the old fire horses of bygone days, just can't sit still when the alarm sounds.

When a pump or pumper passed the Post-Crescent on its way back to No. 3 station Friday afternoon, answering a call to the H. C. Prange company, there was Nick Reider, 212 S. Story street, retired, hanging onto the rear of the vehicle.

Reider, who was injured in a serious fire at the Service bakery many years ago, retired as chief inspector in September, 1957, after 34 years of service. He lives only a couple of blocks from No. 3 station and drops over quite often. And you know how it is for the oldtimers when the fire alarm sounds . . .

John Conway has started a new, not-so-exclusive hobby club in Appleton with clever badges and brochure. It's the Sidewalk Super Guild, and has enrolled about 5,000 members.

The members get a special badge with name inscribed signifying they are official construction engineers with "crane-ing" rights in their county Council for Retarded sidewalk superintending of the Children. The meeting will be new hotel construction. "It's at 8:30 p.m. at the Kimber-yours . . . you've earned it," says the front page of the pamphlet to which the membership card is attached.

Fremont Scouts Complete Plans For Summer Work

Fremont — The summer schedule of the Boy Scouts has been approved. Edward Matheig, patrol leader; and Glenn Koepp, assistant patrol leaders of the Beavers; and Fred Smith, patrol leader; and Mike Redemann, assistant patrol leader of the Foxes, met with Evan Redemann, counselor, and planned the schedule.

A fisherree is planned for Wednesday evening at the William Mathwig residence. Competitive fishing from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m. will be followed by a refreshment party at the Wolf River Crossing park.

June 12 and 13 have been chosen for the first overnight hike, with camping at least five miles from the village. A 60-mile paddle trip home from Shiocton and a Braves baseball trip have been planned for July.

A survival trip with overnight camping is being planned by First Class scouts.

Retarded Children Council Meets May 20

Officers will be elected Wednesday, by the Outagamie County Council for Retarded Children. The meeting will be at 8:30 p.m. at the Kimber-yours clubhouse. Parents of retarded children and interested persons may attend.

Victim of Jesse James

Jesse James Strikes again . . . this time by way of the movie, "Alias Jesse James", currently showing at the Viking theatre. The movie provoked a laughing seizure to a patron causing the victim to "pass out." He is shown being removed from the Viking into Larry's Ambulance carried by Duane La Bubbe and owner Larry Seidl. Damien Wilson holds the door open at right. (Adv.).

SPITTING ON A STONE?

Ever try spitting on a stone to ease pain? Sounds foolish, nowadays.

But a long time ago folks actually used this "remedy." We're lucky to be living in this age of modern medicine.

Medical science has given us many wonderful pain relievers and other reliable, effective drugs. However, it's still not wise to use any medication indiscriminately.

When you don't feel up to par, ask your physician's advice first. Then, if he prescribes medication, come to us. We'll fill his prescription promptly and carefully.

"Trail of the Voyageurs"

In 1634, Jean Nicolet traveled the 900 miles from Montreal to this area via the inland waterways.

Next week, traveling alone, the long distance feat will be duplicated by columnist Charlie House.

Without the aid of husky Hurons, House will canoe the treacherous rivers and lakes in about 3 weeks.

Every one of his adventure-packed days will be reported in "On the House" starting Monday.

Hortonsville Seniors Choose Their Motto

Hortonsville — The senior class at Hortonsville Union High school has chosen "Without Faith There Is Failure" as its motto. The colors are red and silver, and the flower, a white rose.

Commencement exercises will be the evening of May 26 in the gymnasium.

Look and Learn

BY A. C. GORDON

1. In what Shakespearean play is each of these a character: (a) Portia; (b) Puck; (c) Katharina; (d) Bertram; (e) Mercutio; (f) Laertes?

2. On what Italian island is the famous Blue Grotto?

3. What well-known writer conceived the mythical land, Shangri-la?

4. What was Mohammed's birthplace?

5. What is a "contrabandist"?

ANSWERS

1. (a) The Merchant of Venice; (b) A Midsummer Night's Dream; (c) The Taming of the Shrew; (d) All's Well That Ends Well; (e) Romeo and Juliet; (f) Hamlet.

2. Isle of Capri.

3. James Hilton, in his "Lost Horizon."

4. Mecca, Arabia.

5. A smuggler.

LOOK, CITIZEN... YOU KNOW GENERALLY WHAT THE ARMED SERVICES ARE DOING ON YOUR BEHALF, BUT THE AIR FORCE IS UP TO SOMETHING THAT MAY NEED SOME CONVERSATION...

THE BIG JET CREWS CAN'T PRACTICE THEIR TRICKS OVER FOREIGN TARGETS, SO THEY SOMETIMES PICK OUT AN AMERICAN CITY AND PRETEND TO BOMB IT AS IF IT WERE A PLACE IN A COUNTRY WHICH HAS PULLED AN ACT OF AGGRESSION ON US...

WHEN THEY COME OUT OF THEIR 'BOMBING' RUNS THESE JETS CAUSE A SONIC BOOM (LIKE A THUNDER) TO HIT THE GROUND BELOW... IT WON'T HURT YOU, BUT IT MIGHT SCARE YOU—ESPECIALLY WHEN IT HAPPENS AT NIGHT... THINK OF IT AS YOU DO WHEN YOU HEAR POLICE OR FIRE SIRENS... THEN YOU'RE GLAD SOMEONE IS ON THE JOB WHILE YOU REST. THE AIRMEN ARE UP THERE LEARNING HOW TO GET TOUGH ENOUGH THAT YOU WILL HAVE A PLACE TO SLEEP!

DON'T CUSS 'EM — PRAY FOR THEM! 40,000 FEET'S A LONG WAY TO COME DOWN (WITH NO ELEVATOR) IF SOMETHING GOES WRONG!

Claims Council Orders Violated

Alderman Criticizes Interest Charge Policy on Assessments

Ald. Homer Malmstrom has charged that interest charges against Appleton property owners who elect to pay special assessments on the men pointed out City Clerk Elden J. Broehm is simply following through with a long-standing policy he inherited from earlier clerks.

Malmstrom said what other cities do makes no difference. The orders are given each year by the council and are quite clear, he maintained.

Interest is charged in advance, he said, when every resolution of the council calls for interest at 4 per cent annually on the unpaid balance only.

Gives Illustrations
Malmstrom appeared before the committee to support Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings in her claims that the city's 5-year installment plan for property owners needs re-evaluation.

Mrs. Stillings showed the committee a list of what she said are illustrative cases year, even though after he's which point out that the time paid the first installment of of year when work is accepted $100 he owes only $400 most and billings sent out determine of the year. The last installment in 1964 also will require year, the $100 installment will 4 per cent interest payment, be accompanied by 4 per cent The Oct. 15 case—He'll be interest. What the policy dictates, ty tax bill. Saturday, May 16, 1959 Appleton Post-Crescent B12 avoid further interest charges. The city cannot reinvest the money at enough interest to come out, he said. Mrs. Stillings said bonds could be sold annually for one year instead of five. The clerk said he believes the present policy avoids raising general taxes to support the installment plan. Committee members agreed to take both of Mrs. Stillings' resolutions under advisement. They said it appeared they would require a detailed study.
